FOSTER'S FAILINGS

The American Ex-Secretary of Finance Criticised.

CHARGED WITH SOME GRAVE OFFENCES

A Friend Makes the Exposure With Merciless Zeal.

Foster Ruined Many More People Than Those at Fostoria—Ignorant of Finance—Issued Misleading Reports—Accident to the Bawnmore—Beached at Mendocino Badly Damaged.

Washington, July 10.—Congressman John Davis, of the fifth Kansas district, who was swept into the House on the crest of the People's Party wave two years ago, and was re-elected last November, is likely to find himself in bad odor among his colleagues of both parties when he returns here for the extra session next month, and all because of an open letter that he has written ex-Secretary of the Treasury Foster, pretending to condole with him on account of his recent business reverses, but in reality berating him for his alleged "official rascality," and advising him to atone for it by trying to mitigate the distress of the men whom his official mendacity has misled and ruined.

Davis' letter, which was first given currency through the official journal of the Knights of Labor, has now been put into pamphlet form, and it is said every member of the Senate and House of Representatives has or will be in receipt of a copy through the mail. There are 6000 words of it, Davis charging that the people swamped by the failure in Fosteria are scarcely a tithe of the men, women and children Foster has destroyed or damaged; that the latter's example as a business man and his official reports and teachings had misled thousands, that his ignorance in matters of finance was most culpable, that he refused to open his eyes to the facts, swore monthly to official reports that there was more money afloat for capital than ever before, that he refused to open his eyes when the facts were pointed out to him, and that he slept at his post of duty.

The letter concluded in this ironical vein:—"Let me close, my brother, by urging that this affliction of yours is merely a discipline for your good and the good of others. 'Whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth and scourgeth,' etc. Let me pray you now that you harden not your heart unto destruction. It is best to yield early that the discipline may cease. With your knowledge of the wily ways of Shylock you may yet do a world of good for humanity, mitigating the wrongs which your misleading official reports have caused. Do not make it necessary for history to imitate the owner of the lamented little canines before you yield to the chastening rod. It would be a loss to the world and to humanity. Our country is now on the road which leads to the grave of liberty. From that tomb can only arise the sceptre of despotism or the red cloud of murderous anarchy and a dark chaos of uncertainty. In the days of your prosperity you led us along this road to certain death. In your adversity will you not see your error and join that band of patriots who desire to call a halt—who wish to induce a "right about face?"

Berlin Brevities.

Berlin, July 10.—The Emperor and Empress have started on a trip to Norway, which they had delayed several days to be present at the entry of their 10-year-old son into military life, as lieutenant of the first regiment of guards, on Saturday.

Herr Krupp, the noted gun maker, with a large party of distinguished German manufacturers, has started for the United States. He has accepted an invitation and will leave this week.

Twenty-Seven Drowned.

London, July 10.—Further dispatches concerning the Skegness yacht accident state that all the persons drowned were railway builders, who, with thousands of other excursionists, had gone to the little watering place for a day's sport. The yacht Stannon, licensed to carry 60 passengers, took out 30 of them. When well out the yacht was overwhelmed by a thunderstorm. The darkening out of the sky, combined with the rain, obscured the yacht from the view of those on shore at the time of the accident. After the sky cleared the yacht was seen bottom upwards with three men clinging to her. The other 27 were drowned. An old fishboat, the only craft available, was launched and the three survivors brought ashore. Twelve bodies have been recovered. The three survivors agree that nobody was to blame for the accident, as the suddenness of the squall could not be anticipated.

WRECK OF THE BAWNMORE.

Strikes Garda Rocks in a Fog and is Seriously Damaged.

San Francisco, July 10.—The British tramp steamer Bawnmore, which sailed from this port for Nanaimo in ballast last Friday, ran on Garda Rocks at 6 o'clock on Saturday morning, and at once began to fill. There was a dense fog at the time. The steam pumps were started, and after considerable hard work the ship was worked off the rocks and headed back for San Francisco. The pumps were kept going at full speed, but the water gained rapidly, and it was soon seen that the injuries received were far more serious than was at first supposed. The Bawnmore is not a fast steamer, and her crew realized that unless assistance could be had the chances of reaching San Francisco were very slim. Captain Woodside hoisted signals of distress, which were seen by the steam schooner Delnorte, which took the disabled ship in tow and started for Goldenmeat. There was a strong sea running, and as both vessels were high out of the water, progress was slow. The Delnorte held on to the Bawnmore for six hours and then the hawser parted. Believing the steamer was doomed the crew hastily packed up their clothes and got ready to leave her. The steam schooners Wecott and Emily reached the disabled steamer soon after, and at 9:30 on Saturday evening the steamer Pomona was also alongside. The Bawnmore was then so deep in the water the crew were afraid she would sink under their feet, so they decided to abandon her, and lowering boats rowed to the Pomona and were taken on board. Capt. Woodside refused to leave his vessel, however, and said he would sink or swim with her. Finding that nothing could be done to save the vessel, the Pomona came on to San Francisco leaving the Wecott and Emily lying near the Bawnmore and preparing to take her in tow. A dispatch received at the Merchants' Exchange last night from Mendocino states that the steamer Emily assisted by another steamer was towing the Bawnmore stern first into harbor; her bow was very low in water. They beached her there.

TOO MUCH WHISKEY.

Ontario Distillers Talk of Closing Down for a Time.

Ottawa July 10.—Your correspondent interviewed Mr. Miall, commissioner of inland revenue, to-day regarding the report that all the distilleries in Ontario would close down for a year and a half. Mr. Miall said he only knew what was in the papers concerning it, but thought it was correct, since they had a large surplus stock. Asked if this was owing to a decrease in consumption, Mr. Miall replied that it was not; it was due to wrong calculation on the part of the distilleries for some years. As to the amount that would be consumed, for the eleven months of the fiscal year ending May last there was a quarter of a million dollars more collected for revenue for spirits than for the same time the previous year. He had not the whole figures for last month, but what he had showed there would be no decrease.

WAGES CUT DOWN.

Unpleasant News for Miners—Catching a Tartar.

Nanaimo, July 10.—The steamer Estelle left yesterday afternoon with assistant government agent Stanton for Ramsay Arm with a quantity of provisions for the police who are guarding the outlet with the hope of capturing Kennedy. They also took with them a naphtha launch, which may be of service to the party.

A notice has been posted on the pit head of the East Wellington mines announcing the fact that a reduction of 20 per cent. will be made in the wages of men earning more than $2 per day, the reduction to come into effect after next pay day, or the mines are to be closed. A meeting of the men was to have been held yesterday to consider the reduction, but at the hour of writing the results were not known. Great excitement prevails in Nanaimo for fear that a reduction will be made with those earning only $2.50 per day. While it has been felt long since that a reduction would be brought about, it was looked forward to in another way. Nothing has so far been intimated that such a course of proceedings will be taken by the New Vancouver Coal Co. At present the superintendent is away, and until he returns nothing will be done.

The Oddfellows of Nanaimo and Wellington lodges assembled in large numbers yesterday to decorate the graves of departed brethren. The Nanaimo brass band was in attendance, and the Daughters of Rebekah helped to extend the length of the procession, which looked grand. An abundance of garlands and wreaths were left on the different graves.

A serious blunder was made at Chemainus by an individual named King, who appeared anxious to take part in the capture of the notorious Kennedy. A bushman of that name has been staying at one of the hotels there, and it soon aroused the suspicion of King. He conceived the brilliant and desperate idea of first disarming the bushman and then capturing him. The first part of the programme he found no difficulty in effecting, but when he attempted to arrest the man a desperate struggle took place, in which the bushman slashed his assailant with a knife, cutting through two thick shirts and entering the flesh. Then he made good his escape. He is to be arrested and charged with unlawful wounding.

OF UNSOUND MIND.

Cubbins Was Mad When he Erred—New Match Factory.

New Westminster, July 10.—J. M. Cubbins, who attempted to murder Thos. Rotter at Langley Prairie, was for sentence this morning. Judge Bole in passing same said he had arrived at the conclusion from medical testimony that Cubbins was insane at the time he committed the offence, and ordered him to be confined in jail at the pleasure of the Lieutenant-Governor.

Governor Moresby will go to Honolulu to spend his holidays.

John Smith, a bricklayer, broke his left leg on Saturday night on Columbia street. He slipped while stepping from the road to the sidewalk.

Lowery's new match factory on Lulu Island will commence manufacturing in a few days.

Sockeye salmon are beginning to come up stream. The boats last night took from 10 to 12 fish each.

Big Blocks of Granite.

The steamship Mascotte this morning brought down from Nelson Island six immense blocks of granite which were landed at the outer wharf. The granite will be shipped to Portland where it is to be used in the construction of the new city hall. There were 70 cubic feet in several of the blocks.

HORRIBLE DEATHS.

Thirty Gallant Firemen Roasted to Death in Chicago.

TWO HUNDRED FEET ABOVE GROUND

Thirty Thousand People Gaze Upward Horror Stricken.

Beyond the Reach of Human Help—Crowded on a Flaming Cupola They Meet an Awful Death—Some Take the Fearful Leap to Instant Destruction—Fell Into a Chasm.

World' Fair Grounds, Chicago, July 10.—No less than thirty firemen lost their lives at the World's Fair this afternoon just before 2 o'clock. At that time the cold storage warehouse just south of the 64th street gate caught fire in the top cupola, which rests fully 200 feet from the ground. Through this cupola a chimney passes. The cupola is of wood, overlaid with columns and pillars near the top stand. The fire broke out about thirty feet above this. As soon as the firemen arrived about thirty-five or forty of them climbed ladders to this landing and prepared to throw streams of water on the burning portion, when the fire, which had eaten its way inside the building to a point below where the firemen stood, broke out with great violence on all sides. Exclamations of horror broke out from the lips of the 20,000 people assembled about the building to see the fire. Some firemen saved themselves by sliding down ropes, but before the others could follow the flames had burned away the ropes, and the unfortunate fellows, who remained huddled together on the north side of the cupola, were doomed. It was beyond the reach of any of the ladders, and the crowd stood horror-stricken and powerless to rescue or to help them.

The flames ran higher and higher until the men were almost concealed from view. At this moment one of the firemen sprang out into the air and was dashed to pieces on the roof below. Another and another followed his example; crazed by the awful heat and doubtless preferring to be killed by the fall than burned to death. When five had thus jumped, the upper portion of the cupola gave way, and the remaining firemen were swallowed up in the seething mass of burning timbers.

Meantime all the fire engines on the grounds had been called, and aid summoned from Hyde Park, but the main portion of the fire was far above the reach of the streams of water. It is probable that the entire building will be totally destroyed.

It cost $250,000 and is stored with meats, fruits and wines. The total loss will probably reach half a million. The structure was built and occupied by the Hercules Iron Works Company, manufacturers of refrigerating machinery.

The wind is blowing strongly from the north and sweeping flames from one building to the other. If the wind does not change to the south or west the fire will probably be confined to the cold storage building. If it should veer around it would sweep directly into the Administration building, after destroying the Pennsylvania railroad building. The flames at this writing are eating their way in directly to the lower building.

At 2.10 p. m. the entire cold storage warehouse was in flames, and it was reported that three women and several clerks employed in the office on the third floor were crushed by the falling of the cupola. The cupolas of the north side fell into the building, carrying the third floor down to the second. Thirty or forty streams are playing on the building from all sides, but with no effect whatever.

Fell Into a Chasm.

City of Mexico, July 10.—Mariano Leyva, a wealthy farmer of the Valley of Mexico, was crossing a range of mountains recently when he lost his footing and was precipitated into a deep chasm. He could not climb out and remained on a small shelf of rock overhanging a precipice seven days without food or water. He was found yesterday by a searching party, and was almost lifeless. He was brought to the surface by means of ropes. The unfortunate man is in a critical condition and will probably die.

FINE TRADE PROSPECTS.

Australian Trading Outlook Good—C. P. R. Spitefulness Exemplified.

Vancouver, July 10.—The freight by the Warrimoo was almost double that by the Miowera, and Mr. Huddart expects good business. Increased shipments of fish will go by the return trip.

The Orangemen expect about 600 members to take part in the demonstration on Wednesday.

Two Chinamen have been arrested for erecting laundries outside the part of the city set apart for them. It will be made a test case.

Though piles have been on the ground for the extension of the C. P. R. wharf for some time, nothing has been done, and yesterday the Danube had to be taken into the stream to allow the Warrimoo to get alongside, and the City of Puebla was moored several hours before she could get near the wharf. It is said Van Horne delayed building the wharf and general offices because the city bonused the Northern Pacific, and none of these improvements will be done this year.

St. Andrew's Church.

A meeting of the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church will be held on Wednesday evening to consider financial and other questions. It is understood that if some arrangement is not arrived at the mortgagees intend to foreclose.

A ROW IN MONTREAL.

Some Remarks at the Christain Endeavor Convention Causes Trouble.

Montreal, July 7.—The Christian Endeavorers held half a dozen prayer meetings this morning. The principal exercises were held in drill hall in the presence of 7000 delegates. A number of papers were read. Many of the delegates witnessed a parade of the fire brigade at noon. The committee on conferences held meetings in the churches this afternoon.

"The Four Essentials of the Christian Endeavor Society" was the basis of the meeting at the morning session in drill hall.

Rev. Sumantrae Vishnu Karmathe, of Bombay, was the principal speaker in the tent this morning. He made the first anti-Roman utterance yet heard at any of the meetings. He said: "In India we have not only to contend with the hydra-headed monster of idolatry, but also the octopus of Romanism." La Presse came out this evening with an article which declared that Karmarthe's speech was a deliberate insult to the French people and they regarded it as such. Several thousand delegates under the canvas to-night listened to addresses from Rev. Bishop B. W. Arnett, of Vicksburg, Miss., colored, and Rev. D. J. Burrell, of New York City. At the opening of the evening session in drill hall, Secretary Baer read a telegram addressed to T. W. Palmer, president of the World's Columbian exposition, congratulating him on the stand he has taken regarding Sunday opening and expressing the hope that his views might prevail. A deafening roar filled the hall when the import of the dispatch was understood, and the unanimous uprising of the audience to signify assent was followed by more cheering, which lasted fully five minutes. An address was given by Rev. J. Q. A. Henry, of San Francisco, on "The Bible on Outwork," and Rev. N. Boynton, of Boston, spoke, closing the exercises of the day.

A number of delegates held an overflowing open air meeting this evening, and a crowd of toughs threw stones at the speakers and several Endeavorers were struck by missiles, but the police made short work of the rowdies. The hostile demonstration is attributed to Karmathe's attack on the Catholics. Rev. E. R. Dille, of San Francisco, was elected to the board of trustees of the united society.

Montreal, July 8.—Saturday was an eventful day for the Christian Endeavor convention because of the incident last night in which some of the Endeavorers were assailed with missiles as the result of remarks attributed to a Colorado delegate "that the mother of Christ was an abandoned woman." The seed sown by the Hindoo delegate in making an attack upon Catholicism and the stone throwing incident of last night, to-day brought around a number of Catholic tract distributors.

The morning session was consumed largely with various reports and closed by an adress by George M. Ward, of Lowell, Mass. During the session President Clark arose and said:

"Some statements were made and some sentiments uttered at the outside meeting last night for which this convention is not responsible. I speak for you all when I say that there has been no intention or desire on the part of this convention to insult anyone, hurt any religious feelings or decry any creeds. Is not that your sentiment? If so, show it by rising.

The whole audience rose and cheered.

At the evening session of the tent meeting there was an address on "Raw Material of Great Life," by Rev. J. W. Lee, of Atlanta, Ga. The winners of the local committees' prizes for 1892 were first announced. Philadelphia won a handsome trophy, Massachusetts second and California third.

Rev. George A. Wells, of Minneapolis, then delivered an address on "International Fellowship." He considered that the holding of the present convention in French and Roman Catholic Quebec was a great peaceful triumph. At this juncture the events outside the hall were not bearing with the speaker's remarks within. Three hundred French students and quarrymen marched up to the door of the hall, bearing a couple of French flags. The police captured the flags and thumped the bearers' heads together, whereupon their companions raised a great howl. But the police drove the would-be rioters off. Shortly after 10 o'clock the meeting dispersed without any collision with the mob of fully 1000 people that filled the street in front of the exit.

Fifteen hundred English volunteers later paraded the town with a bugler at their head. They stopped to cheer the English and American flags. Then a number of French gathered again and many calls were heard for the taking down of the flags. Finally a row was precipitated by some hot-heads. The police once more were called upon and had a hard time dispersing the riotous crowd. They charged a number of times and had to use their batons freely, with disastrous results to many rioters. In the melee a colored delegate to the convention from one of the Southern States, whose name is unknown, was seriously hurt. A number of arrests were made and all was quiet at 1 a.m.

The principal topic discussed by the people to-day was a repudiation of obnoxious utterances of last night in the assembly hall this morning, and it had a good effect, for all the papers this evening declared that the utterance of Dr. Clark had removed all suspicion that intentional insult had been intended by the visitors. But as a precautionary measure police were stationed about the drill hall during the evening meeting.

RED HOT ROMANS.

Lively Interchange of Compliments in the Italian Assembly.

Rome, July 8.—The final debate on the bank bill in the chamber of deputies to-day was tumultuous, and Senor Bevit, who has been energetic in pressing forward the investigation of frauds, made the speech of the day. "The time has come," he said, "for all implicated in the bank bribery to explain their actions. Deputies, senators, ministers, who had soiled their hands with the corruption funds scattered by the banks of issue, ought now to confess and defend themselves, if they could. The country ought to learn who are its dishonest servants. If the senate will appoint a new committee of enquiry, I will refrain from naming the guilty men. I demand, however, that the guilty men abstain from voting on the measure before the house. If they do not I will name them."

A regular riot broke loose in the chamber as Signor Bevit made this threat and some of the deputies shouted, "Name them." Others turned on Bevit with clenched fists and called him a boaster, a liar and a hypocrite. Insults were exchanged on every side and a dozen or more fights were prevented only by the interference of a few cool men, who held back their more pugnacious colleagues. After endeavoring in vain for five minutes to restore order the president of the chamber suspended the sitting.

When the proceedings resumed Signor Bevit yielded to the importunities of his friends and declined to continue his speech.

The bank bill was then passed by a vote of 222 to 135. The chamber then adjourned for the summer holidays.

The Cyclone's Victims.

Pomeroy, Iowa, July 8.—The dead here now number 48. It is one of the saddest scenes ever witnessed, and even the strongest are compelled to turn away from some of the sights at the city hall, the hospital where the worst of the 108 injured are. Governor Boies is still on the ground, doing all in his power for the comfort of the wounded. The total number of deaths, so far as heard from, is 63. Two hundred and eight houses were swept completely from the face of the earth and not a board left. Hardly a residence remains untouched and the business portion is so badly wrecked it can be said with truth that Pomeroy is no more.

The total damage done in the state by the cyclone is estimated at $500,000.

Loss of the Alfons.

St. Petersburg, July 8.—Fuller particulars of the burning of the steamer Alfons near Remonoff, on the Volga river, on July 4, has been received here. The steamer was loaded with bales of wadding, which had been badly packed. The fire, it is supposed, was started by a spark from the pipe of a careless smoker and the steamer was soon completely enveloped in flames. Through an error on the part of the man at the wheel the vessel ran aground some distance below the landing stage. The passengers became panic-stricken and dozens jumped overboard. Many were drawn under by the current and the still revolving propellors. Nearly 50 persons, it is believed, were drowned. The large loss of live was partly due to the inhuman conduct of the peasants on the river bank, who refused to go to the rescue unless they were paid for the work. Their demands varied from 100 to 400 roubles for each person. Everything except the iron work of the vessel was destroyed.

Sweden and Norway.

London, July 8.—The conflict of the Norwegian Radicals against the government is approaching a climax. After announcing the exclusion of the Swedish colors from the national flag, a majority of the Storthing now refuses to vote supplies for the consular service unless their demands for consular representatives for Norway be recorded. The Stockholm Allehanda, an official paper, says that the refusal will provoke a conflict between Norway and Sweden, and recommends immediate attention to the position by an extraordinary session of the Swedish diet.

Peary's Polar Party.

Portland, Me., July 8.—The steamer Falcon, bearing the Peary Arctic expedition, sailed from this port at 1 o'clock this afternoon. There was a big crowd on the wharf to see her off. As she steamed away cheer after cheer went up from the crowd. Captain Peary and party were on the deck and waved their acknowledgments. The lieutenant proposes to make a brief stop at Eagle Island, 14 acres large and five miles off Harspell. He bought this island soon after he left college, and as it is the only real estate he owns he wants to go ashore there and take a look at his property. After visiting the island the Falcon will sail direct for St. John, Newfoundland.

Twelve Thousand Idle Men.

St. Paul, Minn., July 10.—There is widespread suffering in the several established iron ranges of the Lake Superior districts. It is the worst time since the black days of 1872. There is scarcely a mine on the ranges that is not either closed or greatly curtailed in operation. Miners have not been at work for three weeks and the idle men are at least 8000 more than a month ago. This unemployed force decreases in like ratio the business of the railways in that section, and also the stores and dependent industries. It is probable that 12,000 men are to-day out of work by the closing of these mines. Most of the miners who have suspended operations are still shipping ore and a few are continuing mining operations, with day shifts. In some, however, the pumps have been taken out and the mines will be allowed to fill with water.

AMERICAN NEWS NOTES

Daily Chronicle of Events in The Great Republic.

Chicago, July 10.—The musical congress, which has been in progress for the past week, closed on Saturday. This week will witness the world's literary congress, in contradistinction to the world's press congress held some weeks ago.

Boston, Mass., July 10.—At the opening session of the national congress of Socialists in Chicago, one of the eastern speakers charged that Hon. Patrick Collins, consul general to London, was also a general attorney for the English syndicate that controls several of the largest breweries in the United States. Inquiries of the ex-legal associates of the consul general develop the fact, however, that he resigned his position as counsel to the beer trust prior to his appointment.

San Francisco, July 10.—M. H. De Young, vice-president of the World's Fair national commission, arrived here Saturday to "boom" the California midwinter fair. The mayor of the city has appointed a committee of 50 to take charge of the proposed exposition, and a sub-committee of management will early next week choose a director-general. De Young is being urged for this position on the ground that his connection with the World's Fair has made him one of the best versed men in exposition affairs.

Chicago, July 10.—While prominent local members of the "American Protective Association, which by some elements has been regarded as a "know-nothing" organization, profess to know nothing of the report that the national convention of the order is to be called with the view of bringing into existence a new political party, yet the presence in this city recently of a number of members of the order from other points gives color to the belief that some such move is on the carpet. The association has now some 80 secret societies affiliated with it, with over a million and a half of names on the roll.

World's Fair, Chicago, July 10.—Entries for the great contest of homing pigeons to take place two weeks hence, closed to-day in the office of Chief Buchanan of the department of live stock. Several hundred entries have been received. It has been decided that Capt. R. S. Thompson, of the United States Signal Corps, now on duty at Jackson Park, shall have charge of the flight.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 10.—A large number of delegates have arrived for the annual convention of the Green Glass Blowers' Union of the United States, which will be in session for a week. The annual report will show a membership of about 5000. Many important matters besides the question of prices are to be considered.

Kankakee, Ill., July 10.—Nearly 200 pastors of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago to-day commenced a retreat to St. Viateur's College, near this city. It will last for two weeks, and the discipline will be extremely rigorous.

St. Louis, Mo., July 10.—The lynching of Charles Miller, the negro, at Bardwell, Ky., may become an interesting affair. He was captured in Missouri and taken back to the scene of his alleged crime without the formality of a requisition. It is said that the authorities of Missouri will take the matter up.

Economies Wrought by Chemistry.

Chemists turn scrap iron into ink, old bones into lucifer matches, the shavings of the blacksmith shop into Prussian blue, fusel oil into the oil of apples and pears, the drainings of cow-houses into fashionable perfumery, beggars' rags into new pilot coats, cesspool filth into ammonia, and tar-waste into aniline dyes and saccharine. In Paris they first utilize rats to clear the flesh from the bones of carcases, then kill the rats, use up their fur for trimmings, their skin for gloves, their thigh-bones for tooth picks, and their tendons and bones for gelatine rappers. These are a few of the things the Iron Industrial Gazette names among the products converted into use by the chemist and inventor.—Scientific American, New York, June 24.

Frightened Depositors.

Chicago, July 10.—The deposits in the local banks, especially those making a specialty of savings, have largely increased during the present week. This is believed to be due to the fact that numbers of people who during the recent flurry withdrew their deposits from savings institutions and placed them in safety deposit vaults, are now returning them as regular deposits in the banks, in the assurance that the flurry will not be repeated. Two weeks ago it was almost impossible to obtain a single box at any one of the safety deposit institutions, but enquiry to-day developed the fact that the demand had ceased, and that scores of boxes are daily being stripped of their contents for return to the banks.

Men With Brains.

Chicago, July 10.—The world's congress of authors, historians, historical students, librarians, theologists, and folklorists, will open at the Art Palace this afternoon, and a large number of delegates registered in the reception hall this morning, are being informally received and welcomed by a committee of local litterateurs. One of the lions of the occasion is Walter Besant, the English novelist, who has brought over a number of papers from eminent literary men abroad to be read at the convention.

Corrigan's Contumacy.

Rondout, N.Y., July 8.—A correspondent called upon Dr. Richard L. Burtsell this morning and saw him in relation to the published statement that Archbishop Corrigan had failed to reinstate him to the church of the Epiphany as directed by Mgr. Satolli. Dr. Burtsell said:—"The day after the petition was presented to Mgr. Satolli by the deputation by the Paris epiphany, I received from the official news authorized by Mgr. Satolli on the presentation of the petition with the assurance that Mgr. Satolli would take all the necessary steps for my reinstatement to the church of the Epiphany, and that out of courtesy he would request the archbishop of New York to do it. On June 12 I received official information authorized by Mgr. Satolli that he proffered the request to Archbishop Corrigan, but that the archbishop thought fit to decline to accede to the request, and that now the way was open for the propaganda and the Pope to act."

Kyphosis Bicyclistarum.

One evil traceable to bicycling is the confirmed "stoop" which has already declared itself in many "wheelmen"—a result, indeed, so common in the less strongly-built bicyclists of the continent as to have found its way into classification as the "kyphosis bicyclistarum." The dorsal curvature posteriorly—kyphosis proper—which used to be rare in boys under fourteen years of age, is, now that the bicycle is so largely used even before puberty, very frequently met with, particularly amongst those young bicyclists whose spinal column is developing more rapidly than the ligaments and muscles, and in whose case, therefore, the equilibrium between those several parts is more or less disturbed. Were it merely an unsightly deformity, the "stoop" in question ought to be combatted in every way; but confirmed dorsal curvature posteriorly has sequelæ of its own quite mischievous enough to call for immediate and effective counteraction. The displacement, embarrassed functional activity, and arrested or diseased development, of the thoracic viscera which kyphosis inevitably induces are all too serious to warrant the slightest neglect in remedying them, if only to obviate that recourse to orthopaedic apparatus which has often enough been found to be necessary in severe cases. Exercise of a kind to accustom the spinal column to an action directly antagonistic to the "inclination forward" of the bicyclist's attitude is what is manifestly indicated, and the use of the Indian clubs or such similar means of incurvating the spine anteriorly, throwing out the chest, and maintaining the head erect, should be practised with that object. All the undoubted advantages of bicycling might thus be retained, without that cultivation of the "stoop" which tends to take "a cubit from the stature" of its inveterate exponents, and to impose a hunchbacked devlopment on what would then be a figure of speech to call the "rising" generation.—Lancet.

DR. RICHTER.

A Famous Austrian Newspaper Man, Archæologist and Antiquarian.

One of the most famous of European newspaper correspondents who have come to chronicle the wonders of the world's fair is Dr. Max Ohnefalsch-Richter. That is to say, that up to some twelve or thirteen years ago he was, as an attache of the Vienna Neue Freie Presse, in the foremost ranks of newspaper correspondents who flitted from place to place over Europe to supply their journals from the ever-simmering pot of politics and royal jealousies, but since then he has acquired such a wide-spread fame as an archæologist and antiquarian that he is no longer remembered as a journalist. It may be said that he comes here in both capacities, for as soon as it was known that he would visit this country the archæological societies not only of Chicago, but of New York, Philadelphia and Boston invited him to lecture. The distinguished scientist arrived in this country several days ago, and has made New York city his headquarters. He has evidently come fully prepared to lecture, in his rooms, when visited by an Advertiser reporter, were lumbered and littered up with maps, photographs, lantern slides, statuettes in clay and stone and all sorts of antiquities he has discovered. For twelve years the doctor has been excavating the rich historical soil of Cyprus, and he is best known in this country for his connection with the discussion of the Cesnola collection. Scientists and experts rarely handle each other with gloves or with respectful regard when they chance to disagree, and there was evidently no love lost between Dr. Richter and General Di Cesnola. Dr. Richter has devoted years to explorations on the sites of ancient towns and sanctuaries in Cyprus under the auspices of the British, Berlin and Cyprus museums, in which institutions are many valuable antiquarian and archæological specimens discovered by him. Mr. Gladstone has in particular personally complimented him upon discoveries which illustrate the poems of Homer, and by all the learned bodies of Europe Dr. Richter is recognized as a leading authority on Cyprian archæology.

DR. MAX OHNEFALSCH-RICHTER.

Suspended Matter in Flame.

Professor Stokes, the eminent scientist, has in a most ingenious manner lately demonstrated the presence of suspended matter in flame. The way this is optically proved is by condensing sunlight on the flame, and the light is then scattered by the solid particles in an extremely thin layer, both where the beam enters the flame and where it leaves it. It is polarized in the flame of reflection—an effect, however, which is not found in all flames—it being absent, for instance, in that of a Bunsen flame tinged with burning sodium. In the latter case this seems to be due to the fact that the sodium is in the form of vapor, not of solid particles.

Custom Founded by Sun Worshipers.

How many can tell the origin of the habit of closing the eyes in prayer? Far back in the past the sun was the universal object of worship. As it rose above the horizon the devotee thanked it for its return to bless the world. As it set in the west he implored its early return. His face was always toward the sun in prayer, and his eyes were closed to prevent blindness. The habit has passed down from father to son for thousands of years. Though the object of worship has been changed, the custom survives. —Progress Thinker.

She Knew It.

"Why, it's getting late," said young Mr. Dolley, looking at his watch at eleven-thirty p.m.

"Didn't you know?" replied Miss Gaskett. "Why, it began to get late more than an hour ago."

A NOVEL BLOCK.

Forty Separate Houses Connected With a Central Kitchen.

A move is on foot for the erection of a large apartment house. Plans have been prepared by Mr. Leonard E. Ladd, an architect of Philadelphia, and submitted to a company of Cleveland capitalists. It is quite possible that the company will accept the suggestions of Mr. Ladd and erect the house following the lines of his plan. If this is done it will be the first apartment-house of the kind in the country. The plan provides for the erection of a block of buildings and their connection in such a way that the ordinary kitchen work and general supply features will be cared for in one central building situated in the rear and midway between the houses. The plan submitted is for 40 houses and the average distance through the supply-house would be only about 90 feet. The house proper would admit of more than the usual variety of construction and interior arrangement from the fact that the kitchen and dining-room would not be in them, thus leaving more room for other purposes. From the rear of the ground floor a covered passageway or hall leads to a rear building, which is the private dining-room for the family occupying the house to which it is attached.

Arranged in this way perfect light and ventilation to rear rooms in the house are given, and also to the dining-room. From the dining-rooms of all the buildings in the block a covered passageway or general supply-hall extends to a central building to be used as a common supply building, laundry and kitchen, and fitted up with appliances for furnishing heat, light, cold storage and artificial ventilation if desired. This central supply building will also be connected with each of the dining-rooms of the block by a speaking tube or telephone, by which the housekeeper can order supplies in advance for each meal. This will allow of the serving of food without the smell of cooking in the house. There would also be no laundry work, no coal bins to fill or furnaces to take care of, all this being done from the supply house. This building will be four stories high. The basement will contain the heat generator, electric-light plant, cold-storage plant, and cold-storage closets for food, etc. On the first floor will be the general kitchen. The second floor will be used as a manager's office, public dining-rooms, servants' dining-room, store-rooms for groceries, etc. The third floor will be the servants'. On the fourth floor will be the laundry. At the top of the building will be a large tank to hold water, to be pumped from an artesian well. Being located one story higher than the dwelling-houses, this will supply them all with water. The central building will be in charge of a superintendent, who will buy all provisions, and sell them to the families at cost price. They will be cooked and taken to each house by servants. The dishes will be returned, washed, and put in the closets. As everything will be supplied from the central building, each family will bear pro rata its share of expense. The house will occupy about one and three eighths acres of ground and the cost will depend largely upon the size of the houses and their finish. The company who are contemplating the erection have not yet decided upon a site, but will do so after a further conference with the architect regarding the plans.—Cleveland Leader.

Slept Fifty-Seven Years.

Irving's "Rip Van Winkle" is believed to have its foundation in the wonderful story which Pliny relates concerning the extraordinary experience of a shepherd named Epimenides. The scene is laid in Crete; the time summer, and the Epimenides a boy of some 15 years. During the very warmest part of the day he found that some of the sheep were missing, and at about the same time heard prolonged bleatings from the almost inaccessible portions of a neighboring mountain. He grasped his crook and started off in the direction of the sounds. The path was a very difficult one to travel over, the day hot, so that long before he reached the stray sheep he was so overcome with fatigue that he lay down in a dry place in a cool cavern to sleep. He slept, so Pliny gravely informs us, fifty-seven years. At last, when he had finally managed to shake off the terrible lethargy that had held him spellbound for more than half a century, he returned to the herd only to find a brother younger than himself a tottering, gray-haired grandfather. That "ill-wind" proverb is very appropriate in this case, for we find that Epimenides' enforced slumbers had endowed him with miraculous powers. He became a great epic poet and Gnostic philosopher, and even defied death itself for nearly three centuries, not dying until after he had celebrated his two hundred and eighty-fifth birthday.—St. Louis Republic.

The Books of Last Year.

There is no end to the making of books. Publishers complain that last year was in many respects a bad one for them, and yet the number of volumes let loose upon the world was larger than during the preceding twelve months. In 1892 no fewer than 4,915 new works were published and 1,339 new editions. An analytical list of these works is given in this week's "Publisher's Circular," from which it appears that in only three departments of literature has there been a diminution of supply in sympathy with a decrease in demand. Works of juvenile fiction fell off considerably, which may be taken as a sign that the advance of education among the young has made them more fastidious in their reading taste and enabled them to participate in stories written for grown-up people. The demand for law and jurisprudence is getting less and less. Works of history and biography are also in small request, and the same may be said of essays and the Belles-Lettres, but this may be taken as only a temporary aberration in the public taste. During the year 243 more novels were issued than in 1891, and 390 had the honor of new editions. Upon the whole, 1892 may be regarded as having been a very busy publishing year, and there is every appearance that the twelve months which have now commenced will be even brisker.—London Telegraph.

A National Want.

"What we need in this country," said a well-known professional man, "is a kind of convent, where genivses could go to perfect their ideas—paint their pictures, write their epics, philosophies, and plays, experiment with chemistry and mechanism and even study. Such a convent should have no religious basis or backing, but be a refuge to which a man might repair, to get away from the distracting noise and bother of city life, the worry of housekeeping and pot boiling, the anxieties of rent-paying, the interruptions of so-called social duties; a place, in short, where a man could put his mind to the biggest thing that he knew how to do, or wanted to do, where there would be no hours to keep or obligations to meet, and where the society would be brainy and stimulating. I believe that such a place would be the making of some young men whose abilities are crushed out by the struggle to keep square with the landlord and the grocer."—New York Sun.

Wanted—An American National Air.

The necessity for a national air that has not been either borrowed or stolen was very clearly apparent during the naval rendezvous at Hampton Roads and the subsequent ceremonies in New York. In those places, if never before, the chilly conviction struck many a heart, and there was hourly emphasis of our poverty and musical dishonesty. When the band on one of the British ships played "God Save the Queen" a young lady visitor was delighted with what she thought was an international compliment, for she imagined the bandsmen were playing "America." She was not alone in her error. Hundreds of others then in that vicinity did not know that our greatest of patriotic hymns is sung to a stolen tune, and that tune the most royalistic of all airs.

There was similar misunderstanding as to other melodies. "They're playing 'Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean,'" said a soldier who from the wharf was listening to the Blake's band. His guess was wrong. They were playing "Britannia, the Gem of the Ocean," but he was only one of millions who are not aware of the fact that both words and music of that song were lifted bodily across the Atlantic, and that somewhere on the way the word "Columbia" was substituted for "Britannia." Perhaps "The Star Spangled Banner" came nearer to be generally recognized as our own than any of the other tunes, but foreign musicians did nothing inexcusable when they discussed among themselves the indisputable fact that the words only are American; that the air is an old English production still sung in many parts of her majesty's realm as the ode "To Anacreon in Heaven."

Even "Hail, Columbia," that somewhat crude affair, was not above suspicion, for it is one of the oldest of Italian songs, not infrequently heard in the rural districts of the land of sunshine and blue skies.—Washington Star.

A Bridge Lying Idle.

One of the most costly pieces of property in the United States now lying idle is probably the great railroad bridge over the Pecos river, 200 miles west of San Antonio. This bridge, which is said to be the second highest in the world, was completed six months ago at a cost of $1,200,000. It was built by a private corporation for the use of the Southern Pacific company. In addition to this bridge a railroad track leading to it was built, shortening the distance between San Antonio and El Paso by 11 miles. After the bridge and cutoff railroad had been completed they were visited by President C. P. Huntington and a number of other prominent officials of the Southern Pacific company, and the new property was formally accepted. In a short time a new time-table was issued by the Southern Pacific, embracing the new cutoff and the Pecos bridge. Tickets were issued for that road via Southern Pacific and Pecos bridge, a fare of 50 cents being charged every passenger over the new bridge.

After all this had been arranged trains were started running over the new route, and the announcement was made that the track of the old route through the dangerous canyons of the Rio Grande river was to be taken up. But trains had been running over the new Pecos bridge only two weeks when the order came from President Huntington to abandon the new bridge and cutoff track and immediately resume traffic via the old route. Since that time not a train has crossed the new bridge. There is much speculation in railroad circles as to the cause of this sudden and wholly unexpected action on the part of President Huntington.—Engineering and Mining Journal.

Nature's Method.

The hermit philosopher, Thoreau, was once asked to express his views on the doctrine of an eccentric revivalist, but contented himself with the remark that "we need not try to carpet the whole world with leather as long as every one of us can wear shoes of his own."

Nature appears to manage her household affairs on that very plan. Recognizing the impossibility of bridging every stream and working a million miracles to keep fire from burning and passion from flaming, she has preferred the simple alternative of endowing her creatures with the instinct of self preservation—a tendency which, under certain circumstances, may take the form of self revenge. Nine out of ten species of animals avoid danger by flight, but community interests and other considerations compel the remaining tenth to abide the arbitrament of battle, and without the dread of their defensive valor some of the most useful kinds of insects would have become utterly extinct. Ants, the restless scavengers of the wilderness, will attack the disturber of their domicile with a fury that deters even the greedy boar and the insect eating baboons of the Nubian hill country. Termites permit themselves to be torn to pieces rather than loosen their bulldog grip upon the hide of a foe, and the hive bee assails intruders at the imminent risk of losing her life, together with her sting.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Most Hunters Have a Specialty.

That there is such a thing as a specialty among professional hunters will strike some people as peculiar. The commonly accepted idea is that if a man can shoot at one thing he can at another. But such is not the case. Not only that, but by trying all kinds of game a hunter may ruin himself for all. The man who hunts snipe is generally through when his seasons end. If he shoots any other game, it is for his own use. He some days sends in 200 birds as the result of one day's work. Strings of 80, 90 and 100 are not infrequent. His harvest is at the season of the year when the birds sell at $2.50 and $3 a dozen. The duck hunter is also of a class to himself. This is particularly true of the wood duck hunter.

The chicken and quail hunters are generally the same, and in large part they are known as farmers. Deer and wild turkey also go together. They are found in the same section of the country and at the same time. Their turkeys average them over $1 each, and when they run across a flock it is an easy matter to get 10 or 12 out of it.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WHAT KINGS HAVE BEEN CALLED

Their Nicknames Generally Tell The Character and Disposition.

Kings have always been more or less peculiar, and being such prominent folks have had their little ways noted by everybody. They may have been no wiser or braver or worse than ordinary people, but being Kings they have been regarded in a different light. These royal peculiarities are noted in a curious way by history, and one can get a good idea of what the various Kings have been like by studying the nicknames given to them.

Once upon a time there were four Kings named Boleslas, who reigned over Poland at different times, and although no one might care to study the history of Poland to find out about them history sums up in a word the characteristics of each. The first was the "Lion-Hearted," like the famous English Richard; the second was the "Intrepid," while the third and fourth were entirely different men, being the "Wry-Mouth" and the "Curled," and there you have an idea of the four Polish Boleslases. To further learn what other varieties of Kings ruled Poland in bygone days one need but run over the list and find the "Pacific," the "Careless," the "Just," the "White," the "Black," and the "Short." These names are suggestive in many ways, for they afford an insight into the history of the time as well as describing the monarchs. When Austria was only a dukedom there were three rulers who won for themselves the respective titles of "Catholic," "Glorious," and "Warlike." The first was perhaps a religious man, like Ferdinand the Catholic of Spain; the second may have been like Lorenzo the Magnificent, and the third a great warrior, and so from these titles or nicknames we have likewise some idea of the conditions of the people while these dukes ruled.

France has had a most wonderful assortment of Kings. One has been the "Little," and another the "Bold." One was the "Stammerer," another "Simple," while a third and fourth were "Indolent" and "Fair." These names are descriptive of the Kings themselves, but it is hardly to be supposed that a king who was indolent or simple did much to further the interests of his subjects. But when we find Robert the Second called the "Sage," we realize that he ruled wisely, and that the people were better off for it. This is a very quick way of getting a broad idea of history. France has been a see-saw nation—first up, then down, and its position may be reckoned by the Kings it had. One was "Saint Louis," and another was Hutin, meaning "headstrong or mutinous." Another King was the "Long," while his successors were "Handsome," "Fortunate," "Good," "Wise," "Beloved," and "Affable." France must surely have been on the top then and have progressed further when two Kings were respectively called the "Father of His People" and "The Father of Letters."

We know English history better than any other probably, and can recall what was accomplished by Alfred the Great, Edward the Confessor, William the Conqueror, and Richard Cœur de Lion. The English did not give many of their Kings nicknames, however, leaving their doings to speak for themselves.

Denmark has had a most curious array of sovereigns—the "Blue Tooth," "Forked Beard," "Simple," "Hungry," "Barefoot," "Lamb," "Pious," and "Cruel" being among them. This latter, who was Christian the Second, belied his real name by gaining the additional title of the "Nero of the North." There was probably little happiness in Denmark when he sat upon the throne.

Some of the early kings of France already mentioned ruled over Germany at one time when there was no division, but when there was a separate German nation the rulers gained many curious titles. "Fat" was one and "Blind" another. Also the "Child," the "Fowler." Then "Blood," "Red," "Black," "Superb," and "Sharp," while one King is particularly described as the "Holy and Lame."

The rulers of the provinces that now make up Spain had a number of Kings called "Great" and "Catholic." Then they also had the "Monk" and "Gouty," and included others who were "Infirm," "Bad," "Noble," "Strong," "Valiant," "Gracious," "Sickly," "Impotent," "Beneficent," and "Ceremonious." Fredinand III. of Leon and Castile was the "Saint and Holy."

Hungary has her rulers described as "Saint," "German," "Thunder," "Venetian," "Great," and a "King" Mary, who was probably the only woman who ever had a like title. Over Portugal reigned the "Fat," "Idle," "African," and "Great and Perfect."

The people of Russia have generally had a hard time of it. We realize this to-day and the names given to their Kings show the reason therefor. None were "Good," "Wise," or "Just," though there was Peter the "Great," who did all he could to help his country. But how could a nation progress with rulers who gained the titles of "Terrible," "Impostor," "Proud," "Lightfoot," "Grim," "Fierce," and "Lion"?

So it is all through history, and the names that the Kings have gained for themselves tell in a manner the story of their own lives and the state of the countries over which they ruled.

A Dispersed Plague.

An extraordinary phenomenon has been noticed in southwestern Russia. The mice which have infested not only the fields but the towns and villages for years have entirely disappeared. The Kiew-Slowo Gazette reports that in the spring of 1891 the mice plague in that part of Russia was terrific, the inhabitants were at a loss to know what to do and feared greatly for their crops. Strange to say, at the close of spring, 1892, the rodents departed from the country and left nothing behind them to testify to their presence but innumerable holes in fields and gardens, nor have they put in an appearance since.

A New Girlish Fad.

English girls have a new fad. They have taken to setting up their favorite bits of literature in the "Braille" type for the amusement of the blind. The work is easy, and is a praise-worthy form of charity, since the literature for the blind has hitherto been limited.

Gigantic Birds.

At the last meeting of the Ornithological society in Berlin Dr. Reichenow communicated some particulars of the finding of remarkable remains of gigantic birds in Argentina double the height of the ostrich, which represent our living cassowaries and ostriches.

An Antipodean Adv't.

The following advertisement is from an Australian paper: "Wanted, a young woman (the plainer the better), to help a small, genteel family in their domestic matters; one without ringlets preferred."

Justice Fully Vindicated.

Truth calls attention to a case heard at Aston where a laborer named John Groves was charged with vagrancy for having slept in a furniture van in the public street. A police constable on his rounds heard loud snores. He was not at first able to discover the origin of the sound, but on getting over a wall into a yard, he found the prisoner asleep in a furniture van, snoring in such a manner as to make himself heard at a considerable distance from his hiding place. The prisoner, in reply to the bench, said that he had been at work at Sutton, and on returning to his home at Aston he was unable to gain admission, so that he went and slept in the van. The deputy magistrate's clerk pointed out, however, that he was disturbing the neighborhood with his mighty snore, whereupon the magistrates, probably taking this heinous offense into consideration, for nothing else was alleged against the prisoner, positively sentenced the wretched man to six weeks' hard labor.

The Return Trip.

The steamship Warrimoo, of the Australian-British Columbia line will sail on the return trip on Friday. Already 40 cabin passengers have been booked for Honolulu and Australian points. It is expected that the ship will carry away a better cargo than the Miowera had. The ship will be given all the fresh fish she can carry as well as some canned and salted fish. She will also have considerable miscellaneous freight.

PROVINCIAL PORTFOLIOS.

Once upon a time it was deemed necessary that this province shold have six ministers to manage its affairs, of whom five should have portfolios. So pressing was the necessity for a fifth department that it was established under cover of the supplementary estimates. Yet since the death of the Hon. John Robson the Davie government has managed to rub along with only five members, four of whom are bearers of portfolios. What a difference there must be in the provincial business of to-day and the business of a little more than a year ago, when four ministers now do the work for which five were then accounted necessary. But this is not all. During the greater portion of the last three months there has been only one departmental minister here; Mr. Vernon seems to have taken over all the work, with such assistance as Mr. Pooley could give him. Col. Baker has been in England, Mr. Turner was in the east for some time, and the premier has been away in various places. At the present time Messrs. Davie and Baker are absent, leaving all the work to their two colleagues. There must have been some serious miscalculation when the appointment of the extra minister was considered necessary; or else the business of the province is suffering from the absence of two members out of the reduced number. It may well bother ordinary people to know why the extra department should be continued when it is not needed. How long is it to be kept without a head, if its continued existence is actually necessary? What becomes of the salary voted for the fifth minister? Is it allowed to lapse, or is it divided up among those who perform the work of the vacant department?

THE TWO POLICIES.

In his speech at the Waterloo, Que., Liberal picnic Mr. Laurier said: "Mr. Mackenzie in 1878 raised his revenue by a tariff of 17 1-2 per cent. on imports. The Conservatives have increased this to 30, 40, 50, and in some cases even to 60 per cent. In those days the Conservatives called the customs duties taxes, and so they were. Now they call them protection, but they are taxes just the same. There is taken out of the people of Canada over $20,000,000 every year in customs taxes. If every cent collected through the operations of the protective policy went into the treasury it could be borne, but for every dollar that goes into the public coffers two or three dollars go into the pockets of the protected manufacturer. I object to this. (Cheers.) I say that not a cent should be collected beyond what is required to meet the country's necessities. We will tax for revenue, but not one cent for protection. Taxation is an evil thing that nothing but the requirements of the government can justify. When we are in power—and I don't want to sell the skin of the bear until the bear is shot, yet I think that the Tory bear is about to be skinned—we will relieve the people of protection, which is a fraud, a delusion and a robbery. For it is robbery to take money from one man and give it to another. It is not right that farmers should be taxed to give workingmen employment in the cities. It is not just to tax workingmen in order to appreciate the price of farm products. The Liberals believe in justice to all; and no taxation beyond what is due to the country." In view of such a plain declaration as this the Conservative leaders and organs will be obliged to abandon all talk about the lack of a definite policy for the Liberals. There is a very material difference between the policies of the opposition and the government; one is taxation for the general benefit of the country, the other is taxation for the benefit of a few "protected" individuals.

In anticipation of a visit from Ministers Foster, Bowell and Daly to the Northwest, the Regina Leader urges that these gentlemen should be met at the very threshold of the Territory and the demands of the people be there presented. These demands, says the Leader, are:

1. We want a land policy redeeming speculative desert into homesteads.

2. We want the duties removed or greatly lowered on agricultural machinery, on binder twine, bark wire, coal oil, the cheaper cottons.

The Leader then further urges the people in this way: "Let the people for once act in a business manner and say what is absolutely needed. Let the whole country speak the same thing, and let the farmers and townspeople shove the suckers aside who want something for themselves or their cousins or to feather their dirty greed or dirtier ambition and for once let the Northwest, and not toadyism, speak. Much good the wining and dining of the Hon. Smellfungus or the Hon. Bilgewater of other days did anybody, except the sucker here and there who was getting honest folk to play his game." The inhabitants of the Northwest will surely be dead to their own interests if they fail to respond to such admonition as this.

The exporters of live stock from eastern Canada have lost a good deal of money on some of their shipments this year, and there is no prospect of any profit for them while the Canadian cattle are scheduled. A Montreal dispatch reports the shippers there as feeling highly indignant over what they term the alleged discovery of pleuro-pneumonia in Canadian steers at Liverpool. They say they are not surprised, for they knew all along that the British officials were determined to keep Canadian cattle out of the British open markets. They say it is preposterous that one animal should have pleuro-pneumonia without the rest of the large cargo becoming tainted. If the restrictions on Canadian cattle are kept up exporters say there is no longer any reason for a quarantine against American cattle and that the latter should be admitted to Canada without restrictions. They also agitate for the admission of corn free into Canada. As the fear of being scheduled was advanced as the reason for enforcing the quarantine in British Columbia, it should now be quite in order to suspend the regulations. No harm could result.

Ontario has now fairly entered on its experiment of state care and protection for neglected and dependent children. To the office of superintendent created by the act of last session the government has appointed Mr. J. J. Kelso, who has already gained considerable experience as secretary of the Toronto Humane Society. The act under which he is to work provides for the protection of children from cruelty; the prohibition of child insurance; the severing of the parental relationship where such step is necessary in the best interest of the child; the placing out of dependent children in foster homes instead of orphanages; the appointment of children's visiting committees in every electoral district of the province; the organization of children's aid societies; the granting of constabulary powers to officers of children's societies; the establishment of children's shelters; the separate trial and confinement of youthful offenders against provincial laws. Power is given to municipalities to adopt the Curfew law, which will compel children to leave the streets at a stated hour in the evening.

The Hamilton Herald is an independent newspaper with protectionist leanings, being published in a manufacturing city. Therefore when it speaks as follows Conservatives may well give heed to its remarks: "The Conservative papers throughout the country appear to be taking it for granted that the Conservatives will remain in power forever, but they should not forget that governments have been tumbled upside down many and many a time in the history of the world and will be till its end. To tell the frozen truth the Conservatives will go to the polls at the next general election with poorer prospects for success than they have had in many a day. Things have changed since the "Chieftain" died. What would the party not give if his master hand were only at the helm to-day?"

In the Comox News appears this statement, as part of the results of an interview with Professor Macoun: "Prof. Macoun had been out to Union and spoke highly of it, but was pleased with nothing so much as the sight of two residences surrounded by young trees of the large leaved Vancouver maple variety. He observed that neither in Victoria, Vancouver, or New Westminster did he notice any attempt to make use of this lovely maple." If the professor really failed to notice the numberless specimens of this maple in Victoria it is to be feared that his powers of observation are too limited for a naturalist. It is more likely, though, that he has been misreported by the News.

Increasing the Yield of Butter.

The United States Department of Agriculture has devoted a pamphlet (Farmers' Bulletin, No. 12) to the exposure of nostrums for increasing the yield of butter. These nostrums are made of pepsine, and by their aid a pound of genuine butter, and an equal weight of milk being churned together are converted into two pounds of butter. The pepsine compound really does what it is claimed for it, but the preparation contains only 45 per cent. of butter fat in lieu of 80 per cent; it will not stand working and very soon becomes rancid, containing as it does 50 per cent. of water. The sale of these butter nostrums is, however, very largely on the increase, to the great detriment of the purchaser. The butter thus prepared is softer than genuine butter, and is easily distinguished from it by melting.

CANADIAN DISPATCHES.

The News of Eastern Canada in Short Paragraphs.

Mr. Wm. Dunlop, one of the pioneers of Tiny, is dead, aged 77.

James Anderson, of Middlemiss, is dead, aged 104. He retained the use of his faculties but slightly impaired up to his last days.

Stephen Dunsmore, a farmer of Elderslie, was instantly killed by lightning. A steer was found dead near him, having been killed by the same flash.

The boating and bath houses owned by M. O'Gorman at Sarnia, together with a large number of boats, were burned lately. Loss, $5,000; insurance, $1,200.

The Montreal city council having authorized the issue of a harbor loan of $1,000,000 on the basis of par at 4 per cent., the amount has been placed with Messrs. Coutts & Co., of London, subject to a commission of 1 per cent.

At Beeton, Ont., the building occupied by Andrews, dry goods, Mrs. Patterson, millinery, the upper floors of which were devoted to the publication of the Beeton World, Canadian Bee Journal and Poultry Journal, have been destroyed by fire. Loss, $25,000.

The widow of the late Col. de Belleville, of Montreal, and John G. H. R. Finchamp, an American, were married at Whitby the other day. They never saw each other until they met for the wedding. They became acquainted through correspondence and carried on their love making in the same way.

A by-law to grant $40,000 and a site to cost $35,000 more to a company which proposes establishing smelting works in Hamilton was carried by the ratepayers of that city by a large majority. A by-law to grant a bonus of $31,000 for an electric railway from Hamilton to Beamsville was also carried by a big majority.

The auditors have completed their examination of the books in the cashier's department of the Grand Trunk railway, Toronto, and it is said that although the officials decline to state the amount of shortage of Tweedy and Fraser, the clerks who absconded on Monday last, they took not less than $20,000 of the company's money.

The artizan expedition, equipped and sent out to America by the Dundee Courier and the Dundee Weekly News, has arrived in Toronto. It consists of 12 men, all practical tradesmen and representing the agricultural, mining, mechanical, manufacturing and scientific interests of southern Scotland, northern England and northern and western Ireland.

A row which will probably result fatally took place at the Joggins mine, Nova Scotia. Thomas McCoy turned his family out of doors; Paul White went to remonstrate with him. McCoy threw at White a blade, striking him on the forehead and penetrating his skull, so that his brains oozed out. McCoy was arrested and lodged in jail. The trial takes place on the 15th.

L'Electeur says that a trustworthy person has been informed by an important ecclesiastical dignitary that, in consequence of repeated attacks upon the present system of education in Quebec province, the ecclesiastical authorities seriously think of making most important reforms in public instruction. It is no less than a proposition to transform all the colleges of the province into commercial academies or high schools, and in seminaries only will purely classical instruction be given hereafter. Mgr. Begin is said to be at the bottom of the movement.

A dispatch from Father Point says Capt. Taylor, commander of the Lake Nepigon, sent word that his vessel had struck submerged ice in Firtevan bay, in the Straits of Belle Isle, and that one hold was full of water. The captain asked for a diver and pumps. The Lake Nepigon left Montreal on June 28, with fourteen passengers, 331 cattle and 98 sheep. She is not supposed to be in any great danger. The steamship Crane, from Newcastle, met large quantities of ice in the straits and had some of her plates cracked.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

The Full Court sat at 11 a.m., only to adjourn until Wednesday.

In the matter of the Land Registry Act and the H. B. Company vs. Kearns and Rowling, Mr. Justice Walkem dismissed with costs an application of the defendant Rowling to show cause why the lis pendens should not be cancelled on the ground that the action had not been diligently prosecuted.

Patterson vs. Webb, in chambers.—It was ordered that the place of trial be changed from Victoria to New Westminster.

The defendants in Macdonald vs. the Methodist church were allowed two weeks to deliver their statement of defense.

The Attorney-General of Canada vs. Hughitt & McIntrye.—On the application of the defendants an order was made directing the plaintiff to deliver further particulars, showing what steps he alleges the defendant should have taken to prevent damage and in what respect they failed to exercise due care and caution.

The case of D. Carmody vs. Drum, Allen, Paulson, Northey and the Sayward Mill and Timber Co., Ltd., was tried to-day before Mr. Justice Drake without a jury. Hon. A. N. Richards, Q.C., and M. A. E. McPhillips appeared for the plaintiff, Mr. E. V. Bodwell for the defendants other than the Mill company, and Mr. J. Stuart Yates for the company. The plaintiff's claim arises from dealings connected with the location and acquisition of timber limits for D. Carmody & Company, which consisted of the plaintiff and the defendants other than the Sayward Mill Company. He claims, as against the defendants otehr than the mill company, $3000 for 18 months' work and labor under memorandum of agreement dated April 1st, 1891; $1711.20 money paid by him under the said agreement for the use of the said defendants; $5000, being 1-4 of the net profits of the sale of the property known as the White & Hamill timber property. He has received in cash $5195. The plaintiff also claims that an account be taken of the dealings between him and the said defendants and of the lands acquired in fee or by lease and sold and the net proceeds of sale; and $5000 commission on sale of the Sayward Mill property to the present owners, or in the alternative $5000 from the Mill Company. He further asks that the court order and decree that the plaintiff have issued to him paid-up capital to the amount of $70,000 in the Sayward Mill Company. The trial will not be concluded to-day.

ADDRESS TO ORANGEMEN.

By Rev. Dr. Campbell on Roman Catholicism, the Jesuits and Others.

Orangemen and Sons of England to the number of 200 attended divine service at the First Presbyterian church on Sunday morning. It was the annual church parade of the local Orangemen, and the Sons of England joined their sister society. A fife and drum band led the procession. The parade was witnessed by quite a number of spectators. The front seats of the church were reserved for the members of these societies and the church choir sang music of a patriotic character. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Campbell, pastor of the church.

He paid a high tribute to the Church of Rome for her zeal in advancing the Christian religion as she understands it. The story of the sufferings of her missionaries reads more like a wild romance than a sober record of facts. Whatever they may think of their teaching and methods of carrying on their work, they cannot doubt their sincerity and must admire their heroic daring and self-sacrificing zeal. He also spoke in eloquent terms of what the Church of England did for Christianity, and refused to admit that she was responsible for the errors committed by the English government in the reign of Queen Anne, when dissenters were placed under disabilities almost equal to those of Roman Catholics, who had conspired to overthrow the government. Then he turned his batteries against the Church of Rome. He defended the observing of the anniversary of the event which gained civil and religious liberty for the Anglo-Saxon race and nation. Ireland, said the speaker, was given to the English king by the pope that the Roman Catholic religion might be established there by the civil power, and was taken possession in 1172, and from that time to the present Ireland had not a day of peace. His description of the massacre of 1641, the siege of Derry, and the battle of the Boyne was exceedingly vivid. The landing of King William at Bangor was given in graphic and stirring language. The Jesuit Society was put under the microscope for a few minutes. The aim of the Roman Catholic Church to get control of our educational system was analyzed. She wanted to have our laws made on the banks of the Tiber, and not in Victoria or at Ottawa. She had no politics, although a powerful political machine. In politics she held the balance of power. She was a unit, while others were divided. She calmly looked on the struggle of political parties, knowing that having the balance of power, whatever party gained she was sure to win. Reference was made to the Manitoba School Law, and the Jesuits' Estates Act. The doctor said in conclusion—"Let there be no division among you as to church or nationality, for this place is well remembered where churchman and covenanter met to renew their solemn vows of eternal friendship against their common foe. None of us have anything against Roman Catholics as individuals, or fellow citizens. Our quarrel is with the church as a system. We want equal rights for all citizens. We ask nothing more, we will take nothing less. What is good enough for us in the political or educational systems of our country should be good enough for our Roman Catholic fellow citizens. Orangemen are urged to carry the principles of their order into practice, which may be summed up in the golden rule: 'Do unto others as ye would have that others should do unto you.'"

The Stilling of Troubled Waters.

Prof. W. Koppe of the German naval observatory has communicated to the Annalen der Hydrographie und Maritimen Meteorologie the results of some very interesting experiments in quelling waves with oil. These experiments were aimed not merely at testing the question of fact, but with the further object of determining the mode of operation. Laboratory experiments with artificially troubled waters led him to infer that a thin solution of soap would prove equally efficacious, and this view having been confirmed in the laboratory the experiment was tried on a larger scale in the Elbe, a very weak solution of soap being employed. These experiments confirmed the professor's views as to the superiority of the soap solution to any of the oils for the purpose in view, but the experiment has to be further tested at sea. Potash soap is not soluble in sea-water, but is converted into soda soap which flocculates instead of forming a film on the surface. The solution must hence be made with fresh water. In laboratory experiments with brine, the soap film spreads more slowly than on fresh water, but this is still more the case with oil, and the professor is of opinion that even at sea the soap solution will prove superior to oil.—Die Natur.

PREMIER DAVIE'S TRIP EAST

Arrangements Made Relative to the Nakusp-Slocan Road.

THE CENSUS QUESTION DISCUSSED

Railway Belt Dispute to be Settled During Hon. Mr. Daly's and Mr. Burgess' Visit to the Coast—Immigration Matters Also to be Settled by Them.

Hon. Theo. Davie, Premier, returned home last evening after an absence of six weeks. In explanation of what has been termed his "mysterious" visit to the east, Mr. Davie said:—"As you know, I left Victoria with the object of attending the Kootenay assizes. Upon my arrival there, the opportunity of visiting the World's Fair with Mr. Van Horne and party was offered me, and accepted. At the World's Fair everything was in a state of unreadiness. The British Columbia exhibit was very good, especially the minerals. After leaving Chicago I went to Montreal on business relative to the construction of the Nakusp and Slocan railway. By an act passed at the last session the legislature guaranteed the cost of construction of this road, which is to be managed by the C.P.R. for a number of years. It was therefore necessary for the Government to have the road constructed as cheaply and as well as possible. I have made arrangements to have this done, but of course everything has to be sanctioned by the executive. It is very probable that the construction of the road will be commenced before long.

"I also enquired into the census question while at Ottawa, and was assured that the figures supplied to the Government some time ago, placing the white population of the Island over 2000 greater than the Mainland, were correct. The officers admitted that they had borrowed the Indian census, but the census they had taken afterwards tallied with it. They, however, intend supplying us with complete returns. My object in asking them to set aside a column stating whether the parents of the persons enumerated were natives of British Columbia was to find out the Indian population. As you know many Indians have English names, and if it is stated that such a person's parents were natives of the province and he lives in some Indian village it will be readily understood that he is an Indian. If this is not stated they might be taken for whites.

"The immigration and railway belt questions I also discussed while at the capital. It was decided that these questions should be decided by Mr. Daly and Mr. Burgess, who will be here in a few days."

Hon. Mr. Davie had a very pleasant trip and is much improved in health. He was accompanied by Mrs. Davie.

THE LAST MEETING.

Comandant Booth Will Speak on the Darkest England Scheme To-Night.

The meetings, which Commandant H. Booth of the Salvation Army is conducting in the city will close to-night with a big gathering at the Victoria theatre. The speaker will discuss his father's Darkest England scheme, which attracted world-wide attention when it was first proposed and made public. To defray the expenses of the meetings in the theatre all who take seats down stairs will be required to pay 25 cents. Commandant Booth is a forcible and interesting talker. Being a son of the founder of the great Salvation Army movement and an enthusiastic worker himself in its high councils, he is heard with interest whenever he discusses the Army, either as to its past or future. His meetings on Saturady and Sunday evenings were very largely attended, and many in the audience heard for the first time a Salvation Army speech. This afternoon the Commandant is addressing a select meeting in the school room of the Metropolitan Methodist church. There is a very fair-sized audience present to hear the address.

Madame Laird.

Formerly of San Francisco, and more recently of the Conservatory of Music in this city, has decided to open a private studio at her residence, 161 Vancouver street, corner of Pandora avenue, for instruction in vocal music and voice culture. She has accordingly severed her connection with the Conservatory, and intending students may obtain terms and full particulars by calling at or writing to the above address.

To Examine the Works.

The mayor and aldermen, accompanied by the directors of the Esquimalt Water Works Company, will on Saturday pay a visit to the company's reservoirs at Thetis Lake and Goldstream. A special train will leave the E. & N. railway depot at 8:30 with the party. The train will stop at Thetis Lake to give the party opportunity of inspecting the company's present works, which supply water to the residents of Esquimalt and Victoria West. The party will then proceed to Goldstream to examine the work that has been done by the company at that place. It is from this latter place that the company intend to supply water to the city if the corporation desires it. The manner in which the water will be brought to the city has been fully explained in the Times.

Missionary Meeting.

The quarterly meeting of the Home Missionary Board of the Northwest Baptist Convention will be held in the Emmanuel Baptist church to-morrow (Tuesday) evening at 7:30 o'clock. At 8 o'clock a public meeting will be held at which addresses will be given by Rev. M. B. Rugg, Rev. Harper of Tacoma, and others on various phases of missionary work.

Arbitrator Advises.

Architect R. Mackay Fripp, of Vancouver, appointed arbitrator in the matter of the ward school plans has prepared a written report on the merit of the plans. Mr. Fripp was to have presented the report at the meeting of the school board on Saturday evening, but there was no quorum. The report will be presented at the meeting on Wednesday evening.

Champion Goes North.

H. M. S. Champion left on Saturday for Behring Sea, where she will take her place on the British patrol. She was ordered north before the Garnet, but as the Romulus kept her out of the dock she could not go. On the Champion's arrival north the Garnet will probably return to Esquimalt. It is said the Nymphe will return to Esquimalt very early this fall.

The Conservatory of Music.

There will be no formal vacation at the Conservatory of Music this summer, as Miss Adams has decided to continue the course of studies, both vocal and instrumental, throughout the season. In the former branch, Mrs. Laird's contract having expired, her position will be filled by a thoroughly qualified teacher, capable of teaching sight singing and giving class lessons.

Not Forgotten.

The members of the local lodge of the Young Men's Institute attended high mass at St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral yesterday morning. The mass was a mass of requiem celebrated for the repose of the souls of D. F. Fee and Jos. Kelly, deceased members of the order. Rev. Father Van Nevel, vice grand president, preached. The sermon was of the benefits of membership in this order. In the afternoon the members met in Institute Hall and walked to Ross Bay cemetery and decorated the graves of the deceased members. The ceremony was a pretty one.

Prices Should be Good.

After all, the sealing catch of the Victoria schooners will not be so very large, and at present it seems that high prices will prevail. The skins will find the London market bare, with a very good demand prevailing when they reach there. Last year the skins went to a well stocked market with the call only fair and very good prices prevailing. The market is too much for any combination to corner or control. There are many Victoria schooners with very big catches, but there are many with very small ones, and the average will be normal.

Telephone Company's Troubles.

The manager of the telephone company has heard nothing about the "rumors" that the company intend to close their exchange. The work of erecting the new poles was stopped until some agreement could be arrived at with the corporation. The aldermen want to reserve for the city the right to put their electric light wires on the new poles. The company say that they cannot concede this privilege as when the case of De Cosmos and the telephone company was before the court they stated that no heavily charged wires would be placed on the poles.

The Chinese Starving.

The Chinese confined on the Haytien Republic, which was seized by the United States government, have not received any meals for more than thirty hours, says a Portland dispatch. Through Seid Black, a prominent Chinese merchant, they have telegraphed to the Chinese minister at Washington that they are starving and have asked their government to interfere on international grounds. There is a dead-lock between the ship's agents and the United States collector as to who should feed the Mongols, and neither will furnish the necessary funds to furnish food.

Will Remain a Season.

The R. E. French stock company, which played the "Black Flag" here two weeks ago, will return this week and play a season in British Columbia. They will play two nights every week in Victoria and Vancouver, and one night each weekly in Nanaimo and New Westminster. They will open here Wednesday night in "The Banker's Daughter," and on Thursday night will present "The Blue and Gray." Each piece will be given with special scenery, and both call for the full strength of the company. Mark Drumm, business representative, is in the city arranging for the appearance of the company. He will leave in the morning for Nanaimo and the Mainland to make arrangements there. The entire company have been seen here, some of the members prior to the presentation of the "Black Flag," and nothing further need be said as to their ability. The plan of giving regular performances for a season, and keeping the entire company in the province during all the time is difficult to put in effect.

Get Your Strawberries

Before they are all gone. Red and black currants, rhubarb, fresh vegetables and a full line of groceries, at Mrs. P. Wilson's, 185 Douglas street.

ARRIVAL OF THE WARRIMOO.

Second Steamer of the New Line Arrives on Saturday.

The Warrimoo, the second of the Canadian-Australian line of steamers, arrived at the outer wharf at 11 on Saturday night. She is a sister ship to the Miowera, and like her, is handsomely fitted. An interesting experiment is being tried in connection with the trip. The mails which left London May 19th arrived in Sydney June 17th. The Warrimoo left Sydney several hours after the arrival of the mail, giving correspondents an opportunity to answer the London letters. These answers were brought up by the Warrimoo and were yesterday placed on the Atlantic express. It is expected that they will reach London by July 19th. Thus London merchants would receive answers to their Australian letters mailed 30 days previously.

Large quantities of Australian and Hawaiian fruit arrived for Victoria and Vancouver merchants. There were also wines, cheese, preserved meats, exhibits for Chicago, a trial shipment of shale and ten Australian horses. The Victoria freight was landed on Saturday night and the Warrimoo left for Vancouver yesterday morning.

The Cosmopolitan Magazine.

The midsummer Cosmopolitan, the first at the new price of 12 1-2 cents a copy, though unchanged in size, excells any other issue of that magazine in the number of its distinguished contributors, in the interest of its contents and in its overflowing illustrations by famous artists. Francois Coppee, William Dean Howells, Camille Flammarion, Andrew Boyesen, Charles DeKay, Thomas A. Janvier, Colonel Tillman, Agnes Repplier, and Gilbert Parker are a few of the names which appear on its title page. Three frontispieces, all by famous artists, furnish an unusual feature, and among the artists who contribute to the 119 illustrations adorning its pages, are Laurens, Reinhart, Fenn, Toulssant, Stevens, Saunier, Fitler, Meaulle and Franzen. The midsummer number is intended to set the pace for the magazine at its new price of 12 1-2 cents a copy, or $1.50 a year. The magazine remains unchanged in size and each issue will be an advance upon its predecessors. Literally, every known country is being ransacked for material in the hope to bring the Cosmopolitan forward as the leading magazine in the world.

THE FEAR OF LEPROSY.

THE FIRST SYMPTOMS OF THE DREAD DISEASE.

The Presence of the Plague in Honolulu, and the Manner in Which it is Developed —Dangerous Customs of Friends and Relatives of the Afflicted.

"The natives are seemingly without the slightest fear of disease," said my informant. "I have seen the sound eating out of the same bowl of poi with a leper who had lost two or three fingers. The evidence of leprosy did not excite their fears any more than it affected their appetite. They will hide the sick in their huts, or take them up into the mountains, where they can be kept out of the way and more securely hidden, for many months. When they are apprehended and sent away their friends gather to bid them farewell, and it is a harrowing scene. They express their sorrow in poignant lamentations—a national wail that is so harrowing that I avoid hearing it whenever it is possible. No matter how far the disease may have advanced, though it may have attacked the nose and lips, it sometimes requires official interference to prevent the friends and relatives kissing and embracing the sick who are to be sent into banishment, and whom, they know, they will never see again."

"How does the disease first show itself?"

By discoloration—white spots on the lower limbs, usually. Then there is a depression of the muscles between the thumb and index finger, a wasting that continues until all the fingers bend backward, shrivel and drop off. There is also a bluish pallor; blotches appear upon the forehead above the eyes, which always assume an abnormal appearance.

The lobes of the ear are frequently elongated until amputations are necessary, the diseased portion being four or five inches in length. Eruptions that do not heal are another form, and the lips become drawn and pitted, with hard swellings over the brows, and the nose is reduced to a shapeless mass; it is often entirely eaten away. This also happens to other portions of the face. Strangely enough the patient does not always suffer and there are many instances where it is said to be perfectly painless. The lepers are maintained on Molakai at the expense of the government, and being provided with comfortable houses and unlimited poi, do not look upon their lot as one of unmixed misery.

The Hawaiians are a light-hearted people and find amusement in every diversion that offers. Their songs and their love of flowers are a natural instinct, and they seem like children in the simple joyousness which evinces itself in their manner and their smiling faces. Grief does not rest heavily upon them, and the bereavement that follows everlasting separation from home and friends, finds speedily consolation in the formation of new ties. Their friends, in turn, console themselves in like manner when they are bereft.

Upon arriving at Molakai the lepers are permitted to found families, and in this land of death there are speedy betrothals, marrying and giving in marriage and the birth of children. The latter remain in Molakai until there is reason for the authorities to believe they are free from the taint, when they are permitted to go to any one of the other islands they may choose. Dr. —— is now the resident physician, a terrible existence one may believe in a literal valley of the shadow of death. The presence of disease, however, does not affect the inhabitants who here as elsewhere, crown their disfigured and misshapen heads with flowers and gallop about upon horseback, dogs and horses being allowed them apparently without limitation. They take no thought for the morrow, and have no cause to feel anxiety as to wherewithal they shall be fed and clothed. Food and shelter are provided them as long as they live, and although doomed, they probably reason logically that even in this event, their lives may be extended beyond that of the apparently sound and able-bodied whom they have left behind them.—Honolulu Cor. Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Facts in Few Words.

An expert says that with 1,000 words a man can transact all the ordinary business of life, and of these he commonly uses only 400 or 500.

Five ladies in waiting to the Empress of China are en route for Berlin, whither they have gone, it is said, to study the German language and German court etiquette.

While a boy was riding a horse near Stewart, Va., one day last week lightning it is reported, struck the animal, causing instant death. The young rider was thrown some distance in the air, but fortunately escaped without serious injury.

A novel electric locomotive has come out in France, the invention of J. J. Hellmann. The engine generates its own electricity. It carries a boiler and steam engine. The latter is coupled direct to a dynamo. The current is led from the latter to four motors, each locomotive axle having a separate motor.

An ear of corn twenty-seven inches long, twelve inches in circumference, having twenty-four rows of 157 grains each, making a total of 3,768 grains on the one cob, is exhibited at Shenandoah, Ks., as a specimen of that region's agricultural capabilities. It was raised last season, and eleven such ears would make a bushel of corn.

A Benefactor.

It is said that the first person to utilize a clever remark for quotation is entitled to as much credit as the person who wrote it, and often a play upon a phrase is as bright as the original. Oliver Hereford, the talented illustrator and son of Rev. Brooke Hereford, is noted for his droll variations upon old-fashioned proverbs, and a few recent examples are worth repeating. Who that has ever been photographed, with all that it implies, could fail to appreciate this: "You may lead a man to the photographer's, but you can't make him smile." And what heartfelt assent will be given by many a man—and perhaps some women—too, "A little widow is a dangerous thing." Somewhat in the same vein was his characterization on the last day of the week of an egg that failed to please his taste, as "a Saturday night egg," explaining when asked: "Because it has tried all the week to be good." We may praise the stage, the concert platform, the founder of colleges and professorships, but the real benefactor to mankind is he who goes through life with a jest on his lips.—Boston Advertiser.

THIS ROOSTER COULD SWIM.

A Canadian Bird That Took the Duck's Way of Crossing a Pond.

There are some seeming contradictions in the world of nature; for example, the cat that shrinks from wetting even her velvety soles is driven to distraction by the smell of fish by the very love of it. And a great scrawny rooster, that never should be so much as seen taking a bath except in a nice, dry, dusty place, in the road or ash heap, deliberately walking into a pond of water and swimming across it is a queer sight indeed. Yet, according to Harper's Young People, that is what anybody may have seen last summer at the mill pond on a little stream called Baker brook, which flows into the river St. John just beyond the border of Maine, in Canada. He was a big fellow, dignified and important from the top of his flaming comb to the tips of the stiff feathers that grew at right angles to his feet, like wings or "pantaloons." He had always taken his bath in the dust heap, until he grew old enough to lead his charge of hens far away from home, about the more distant fields, even beyond the brook, where all day long they nibbled blades of tender grass and chased the grasshoppers. But once around the pond and across the brook the most direct course back to the roost lay in a line across the mill pond, and how often he and his family were caught by the darkness upon that side of the stream, and just how the thing was managed at first no one will ever know. But one evening the men who were working near the mill saw a flock of hens and a rooster on the wrong side of the brook, looking wistfully toward the other side and home. One by one the hens, taking a good start off the high bank, flew across, leaving the rooster alone. But only for a moment, for instantly he walked to the water's edge, waded in without the least hesitation, and struck out for the other shore. He sat up high, well out of the water, like a duck, and as it was only about sixty feet wide there, he was across in a jiffy. Then shaking his feathers clear of the moisture, he ran away after the hens as fast as his long legs could carry him. This remarkable occurrence was witnessed several times; as often as the chickens, tempted by the more remote, richer hunting grounds, wandered in that direction.

Mrs. Jenness Miller on Hoops.

Worth and Redfern, says the Jenness Miller Magazine, say that the big hoops of years ago are coming in. Who is Worth? Who is Redfern? By what divine right do these two men assume dictation concerning women's dress without reference to health, grace or artistic fitness? Bah! It isn't Worth or Redfern who forgets the bonds of women's slavery, but rather that utter lack of spirit and independence which the ordinary woman displays in following fashions which she deplores. Women of character will not consent to the deforming and hideous crinoline; women without character will undoubtedly jump at the novelty.

Personally I believe that the return of the crinoline as a spectacle would increase immediate interest in life. The same spirit that makes one laugh at the antics of a drunken man would find enjoyment in contemplation of the absurd and grotesque crinoline; the funny man would have an occupation; the wearer the consciousness of being like nothing in the heaven above, in the earth or air or water beneath—except other crinoline wearing curiosities. You will not have to wear it unless you wish; and if you wish it will suit your case exactly. For women of sense and spirit the crinoline is neither a terror nor an anticipation.

A Comparison of Work.

If eggs were sold by the pound it would revolutionize the breeds. As we have before shown, the hen that lays the largest number of eggs may not really be performing as great a service as one that lays fewer eggs but which are of larger size. Suppose a hen lays 120 eggs in a year, the eggs averaging ten to the pound. Her product would be twelve pounds of eggs in one year. Now, let us suppose that another hen in the flock layed 104 eggs, the eggs averaging eight to the pound. In the first case the hen that produced 120 eggs would be the more valuable, yet she has not performed as much service as the one which produced but 104 eggs, as the eggs of the latter are a pound heavier, and if eggs were sold by weight she would give a larger profit on fewer eggs. Selling eggs by weight gives both the producer and the consumer a fair sale and purchase, and farmers would begin to select the breeds that produced large eggs. They would then be compelled to improve their flocks in order to secure the best market prices for their eggs.—Mirror and Farmer.

He "Set" Her on Ice-Balls.

A "Cape Codder" tells how he cured a setting hen. "I made," he says, "half a dozen snowballs and soaked them in water. In the morning they were solid ice. I shaped them as near like an egg as possible and then placed them under the setting hen. She smiled. I stood by and watched her. She cuddled the ice eggs under her and chuckled softly to them. In about ten minutes she appeared to get uneasy. She arose and scratched the darlings together and shook herself; then, evidently satisfied, settled down again. Soon she got up once more, this time with evident concern; something was wrong surely; perhaps the weather was getting cold. She felt wet and chilly, but with great perseverance, she sat down again, and again got up, this time for good. She walked out of the box and then turned and looked in, but she had had enough."

A Wonderful Old Lady.

Next to Cato, who learned Greek at eighty, Mrs. Olive Thorne Miller, the writer on birds, is probably the most remarkable example of what can be acquired after school-days proper are past. She was beyond middle age before she could distinguish one bird from another. She had a friend, an enthusiastic ornithologist, however, and in her endeavor to be a sympathetic companion to the bird-lover Mrs. Miller's own interest was aroused. To-day she is an accepted authority on all things ornithological.

A Wife's Money in England.

One English judge has held that if a woman spends her own money in supplying necessaries to her household, it is not to be regarded as money advanced to her husband, in the absence of a definite engagement to repay it on his part. Another holds that if husband and wife invest money made by them in joint business in their joint names, the husband alone can use the income as he pleases.

ON SCIENTIFIC SUBJECTS.

The higher the barometer the less a man weighs; the lower the barometer the smaller he feels.

The calculation of the astronomer Bailey proved that the weight of the earth is 6,040,836,000,000,000 tons.

In a human body there are about 263 bones. The muscles are about 500 in number. The length of the alimentary canal is about 32 feet.

An excellent method for waterproofing the surface of a wall is to cover it with solution of soap. After twenty-four hours a coat of lime solution is applied. This process is repeated several times, and is claimed to make the wall perfectly watertight.

It is popularly supposed that it is civilization that increases and aggravates nervous diseases, but Dr. Brinton says it diminishes them. Among the lowest African races, which might be supposed to be devoid of nerves, he found such diseases very common.

If the sun were all coal, and that of the best quality, the entire mass, if emitting the heat now sent forth, would be burned up in less than 6,000 years. Nevertheless, astronomers tell us that the sun may be depended upon for a few millions of years in the future.

ART ETCHINGS.

Twenty-five pictures by modern French painters, now exhibited at the St. Botolph club, Boston, are insured for $248,000.

A cast of Phillips Brooks' face was obtained by the sculptor Bartlett immediately after his death, and it is said that its resemblance to the original is excellent.

M. Munkacsy is at work in his Neuilly studio on a picture of such dimensions that the canvas has to be raised and lowered by a machine for the purpose. It is thirteen feet high and forty-five wide.

Sir George Reid, president of the Royal Scottish academy, says Whistler's portraits attract because of their shadowy nature. "They are not people," he says, "but ghosts." The impressionist always did claim that he infused spirit into his work.

According to the last report of the science and art department of the British government there were under its auspices in 1891, 207 art schools, with 47,316 students; 1,063 art classes, with 52,215 students, and 6,212 elementary schools, at which 1,170,340 children and pupil teachers are taught drawing.

FOREIGN PEOPLE AND EVENTS.

West Indian people eat alligator eggs.

It is estimated that about 200,000 pedestrians and 20,000 vehicles cross the London bridge every day.

A caution has been issued by the authorities of Berlin against Hamburg factory butter, which contains from 16½ to 19½ per cent. of water.

Among several semi-civilized tribes the women do all the courting, and among the Zuni Indians they control the situation after marriage, as the children, inheritance, etc., belong to the wife.

NAKUSP

SLOCAN MINES

The Eldorado of British Columbia

All the ore output now assured to Nakusp by the immediate construction of the NAKUSP & SLOCAN RAILWAY, which will start at Nakusp and end at the Forks of Carpenter Creek, directly in the centre of the Slocan Mines.

No Other Route can Possibly Compete

Thirty-five miles of Railway from Nakusp will tap the whole of the Mines of the Slocan District, and the ores are bound to come out BY THE NATURAL GATEWAY, VIA NAKUSP, to the general welfare and prosperity of the Province.

Look at the Map.

A Provincial Railway Charter and subsidy and a Dominion Railway Charter have been obtained for the Nakusp & Slocan Railway, and the Canadian Pacific Co. have entered into an agreement to lease and operate the Railway for 25 years. There can be no doubt as to the importance of NAKUSP, the Gateway of the Slocan Country, either from the North or South, and the principal shipping and distributing point for all the district tributary to Slocan Lake.

Concentrators and Samplers

Now in contemplation, consequent on the definite settlement of the Railway question. The Nakusp & Slocan Railway will be built with a rush right into the heart of the Mines. See Wardner's and other experts' estimates of the production of Slocan Mines in the press. All this now assured is directly tributary to the Nakusp & Slocan Railway.

In the Supreme Court of British Columbia

IN CHAMBERS.

In the matter of the "Quieting Titles Act;" And in the matter of the Title to Lot Twenty-six (26), Subdivision of Block "N," Victoria West, being portion of Section 31, Esquimalt District, British Columbia.

NOTICE is hereby given that Robert Semple of the City of Victoria, B.C., has made an application under the "Quieting Titles Act" in the Supreme Court of British Columbia, for a Declaration of Title to the land above described, and has produced evidence before the Honorable Mr. Justice Drake whereby he appears to be the owner thereof in fee simple free from all encumbrances. Therefore any person having or pretending to have any title or interest in the said land or any part thereof, is required on or before the 16th day of July, now next ensuing, to file a statement of his claim, verified by affidavit, with the Registrar of the Supreme Court, at the Supreme Court House, Bastion Square, Victoria, B.C., and to serve a copy on Mr. H. G. Hall, of 12 Bastion Square, Victoria, B.C., solicitor for the said Robert Semple, and in default of doing so every such claim will be barred and the said Robert Semple will be entitled to be registered as owner in fee simple in possession of the said land above described, subject only to the reservations contained in the 23rd section of the Act above mentioned.

Approved. HARVEY COMBE, Deputy Registrar of Supreme Court.

Dated this 8th day of April, 1893. ap14-3mw

TROUT LAKE CITY.

One of the Latest Additions to B. C. Cities —A Grizzly's Fate.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Trout Lake City, July 1.—There is probably no more beautiful spot in British Columbia than the new mining town of Trout Lake City. Situate at the head of Trout Lake, in the West Kootenay district, at an altitude of 2,300 feet and but one day's journey from Revelstoke, it possesses the double advantage of being easily accessible to the outer world and convenient to the great mineral range whose extraordinary richness has recently created such a furore among the miners and prospectors of the west.

The town itself, although but a few months old, presents to the visitor a scene of bustle and excitement seldom witnessed in old established mining camps. Stores and hotels are doing a rushing business; while several enterprising citizens are driving a brisk trade in tents and other temporary shelters pending the completion of their permanent places of business. Capitalists and their representatives arrive daily and their eagerness to bond the claims is the best and most reliable expression of opinion as to the value of the property so secured.

The various mountain trails which diverge from Trout Lake City are daily thronged with prospectors loaded with heavy packs of provisions and mining implements, en route for the mountains; for this is the great distributing point from which all supplies are procured and through which all the mineral wealth of the district must inevitably pass on its way to the markets of the world.

Galena exists in deposits of unprecedented magnitude and richness, and is usually found in combination with a large percentage of silver. Gold is to be obtained in almost every creek and rivulet by the simple process of washing the sand and gravel of the bed. Copper has been discovered in payable quantities, and deposits of graphite, nickel and manganese are known to exist. The following are a few of the mines tributary to Trout Lake City: The Haskins group, the Wagner group, the Great Northern, the Blackburn group, the Horne and Poole groups, the Silver Cup, the Livingstone group, the North Star, the Seroy and the Sheran groups.

Several pre-emptions have recently been taken up in the beautiful valley which stretches from Trout lake to Summit lake (some six miles from the northeast arm of Arrow lake) and includes some of the richest soil in the district.

Among the permanent settlers may be mentioned Mr. Sydney A. Roberts, Dominion and provincial land surveyor, who is well known as a surveyor of mining properties, and Mr. Arthur H. Harrison, of the Royal School of Mines, whose assay office near the river bank is a resort for miners and prospectors during their periodical visits to town. Mr. Harrison has been kept very busy lately assaying the numerous samples of ore which daily pour into his office, and states that the samples assayed during the past two weeks run considerably above the average in value.

Mr. Alma Cassell left town last week, bound for the Livingstone group of claims, at the head of Fish creek. Mr. Cassell has bonded the Snowshoe, Silver Queen and other claims on behalf of the Monte Cristo Mining Company. The Livingstone will probably be added to the list.

It is said that $15,000 will be spent this summer in developing the Abbot mine, one of the Haskins group. The Wagner group has lately been bonded by a Spokane syndicate for a considerable sum.

Jack Stauber, the well-known trapper and prospector, met with a strange adventure a few days ago. Jack had camped some four miles above the Forks, and a varied assortment of goods, among which were several pounds of dynamite, coils of fuse and percussion caps, lay promiscuously upon the ground. Jack went down to the creek for a bucket of water, and on returning was much surprised to see a ferocious-looking grizzly bear in possession of his effects. The bear commenced hostilities by rushing at poor Jack, who, being unarmed, immediately remembered that he had engagement somewhere, and sought the seclusion offered by the leafy top of a tree hard by, where he sat and communed with himself. The bear returned to his investigation of Stauber's supplies and proceeded to chew fuse, caps and other miscellany in a vigorous and energetic manner. Presently something went off, and when Jack once more reached terra firma he found a large hole in the ground and not enough bear meat left to hold an inquest on. When last seen the sole survivor was making tracks for the lake for more dynamite.

CANDIDATE FOR CARIBOO.

Thomas P. Reed Asks Election as an Independent.

Mr. Thomas P. Reed has announced himself as a candidate for the seat left vacant by the death of Mr. Nason of Cariboo. In his address to the electors he thus defines his position: "As many of you know, by predilection I have long been a supporter of the present administration, and would have still remained so had they continued in the present to have given that general satisfaction as in the past. Deviating however from that course and receiving no check from your representatives, I deem it essential that one at least with independence of spirit sufficient to say no when no is required, should represent you in the future. As such, therefore, I place myself before you, independent of party or clique, independent of factious opposition, but working with a clear vision to promote those measures most conducive to the interests of the district."

Mr. Reed strongly condemns the erection of new government buildings. Another paragraph of his address reads as follows: "The principal measure to be introduced to the house next session will be that of redistribution. From what I learn the district will be divided in two, consequently one member will be dispensed with—the reason assignable, smallness of population. Who is to blame for this paucity of population—this stagnation of all business and enterprise, but the government? Why has not endeavor been made to facilitate and cheapen the transit of goods and material to this upper country, to wit, a railroad? If a country can afford to borrow and expend something like a million dollars on needless and unproductive works is it unreasonable to say it could equally have afforded that amount for an enterprise the productiveness of which is acknowledged by all, both residents and foreigners, who have of late visited our mines? As you are aware, capitalists who have of late traversed and inspected the district, have thought highly of its mineral resources. Build a railroad, cheapen transportation, and the inflow of capital is assured; an impetus is given the mining industry; population and prosperity return,—yet not a move has been ever made, not a dollar expended to promote its realization. Nevertheless, the resources of the country are mortgaged for that which the Mainland did not require, and the Island could have done without."

THE GREAT INTERIOR.

Cariboo Booming Again—Section Man Killed—Mining Prospects.

Mission City News.

It is rumored that the C. P. R. will erect a magnificent dining hall at the Mission junction.

On the 6th inst. the wedding of the Duke of York was fittingly celebrated by loyal patriots at the Matsqui hotel.

The C. P. R. has extended the freight house siding the first of the week, giving considerably more track room in their yards here.

Saturday, the 15th inst., the Episcopalians of this vicinity will have a special meeting to discuss the advisability of proceeding at an early date with the erection of a church edifice.

(Golden Era.)

Settlers are coming in from Washington and Idaho looking for land.

R. Dove has discovered rich ore on Wild Horse creek, and will likely ship during the coming sommer.

Claims continue to be taken up in the vicinity of the North Star and the Sullivan claim, the Hope.

Word has been received that the trail up the north fork of the Spallumcheen will be ready for traffic on the 20th of July.

David ....ath, who has just returned from the North Star, reports a wonderful showing, and says the property is cheap at $150,000.

Robert Jennings, formerly of Winnipeg and Regina, and who has been foreman and manager at the North Star, has applied for one mile and a half of mining ground on Wild Horse creek. He has raised a strong company, and will tunnel and drift near the Victoria gulch, where good prospects have been obtained.

The late discovery on the Moyea by Hogg and Houghton has caused quite an excitement. Four or five claims have already been taken up and prospectors are going daily in that direction. The discovery is on the proposed line of the Crow's Nest railway. L. Hill has gone to examine and report upon the discovery.

Constable Redgrave returned from the upper country on Sunday with Jim McKay, arrested for perjury in the case of Regina vs. Larmour. McKay was liberated on $2,000 bail, to appear in court at Golden on July 7th. Johnson, who threatened to shoot McKay, was arrested this week and bound over to keep the peace.

The North Star mine was taken over by L. Hill, acting for Mr. Dan Mann and associates, on the 1st of July. The $30,000 was paid promptly. It has caused a flutter of excitement among prospectors and will lead to more important discoveries. Mr. Attwood's report and opinion places the North Star one of the best properties either in East or West Kootenay.

(Inland Sentinel.)

Things are booming in Cariboo, and it is a good deal like old times come back again.

The Spanish creek boys are doing well, but cannot be said to have their claim thoroughly opened yet.

On Harvey creek it is principally drifting diggings, and this part of the season is not the best for them, as there is considerable water to contend with.

The Kwong Lee Co., on south fork, are having a splendid run of gold, and have taken out more pay this season already than in all of last.

The Kangaroo Creek Co. have not yet struck bed rock in their tunnel, but hope to this season. The claim should yield a handsome return, as the surface diggings were very rich in early days, and this is the first drifting claim on it.

On the north fork the Victoria Hydraulic Mining Co. have finished cutting nearly 100,000 feet of lumber to be used on their claim. They are running a tunnel in their ground, and are now in nearly 200 feet.

John R. Smith, one of Cariboo's most successful miners, has just returned to the Forks, after a trip to his Snow Shoe creek claim. Things are rushing on that and surrounding creeks. Nearly a foot of snow fell there last week.

The prospects on Keathly creek are very encouraging, and Messrs. Vietch & Borland attest their faith in the future of that creek by bringing in some fifty tons of general merchandise, about one-third of which is for their branch store at the mouth of Keathly.

Frank Russo, an Italian laborer, aged 37, fell off a rock train while passing over a trestle at Tranquille on Thursday last, while passing a sharp curve. He dropped 25 feet among rocks and debris. He was brought to the hospital here and died the same evening.

The contract for constructing the wagon road from William McLeod's to W. H. Cariew's place in Nicola, for which tenders were advertised to be received by Roadmaster Stevenson, was awarded to Robert Patton, of Quilchena, for $1549, which was the lowest of four tenders ranging up to $2,850.

The season so far has been remarkably wet for Quesnelle and neighborhood. Not for some years have we had such a wet spring. This, combined with the unusual fall of snow during the past winter, has given mining, and especially hydraulic mining, an impetus that it would not otherwise have received.

The South Forks Co. are piping steadily, and have a cut across the entire channel. Some time this season they will sink a shaft to bed rock, as near the centre as possible, then, should it be necessary to run a channel to get an opening, they can easily determine at what height above the present river to start.

The Cariboo Hydraulic Mining Co., on Four-Mile creek, have virtually bonded their claim to Mr. Hobson of Horsey for $3,000. This is one of the easiest opened claims in the country. A ditch about two miles long would connect it with a lake four miles long and two miles wide, thus ensuring a plentiful supply of water.

John F. Smith brought in two samples of ore from the Lewis creek district. One specimen upon assay gives 203 ounces of silver and three dwts. of gold to the ton, while the other gives 131 ounces of silver and 18 dwts. of gold to the ton. These are stated to be fair samples of the ores lately opened up in the Lewis creek country.

Ellis, Pearson and Nuffall are seeking incorporation for their company under the name of the Quesnelle Forks Canal and Hydraulic Mining Company, with a capital stock of $250,000 in $5 shares. This is the company that had the diver at work on the south fork, and the above is the result of the prospect obtained from the bed of that stream.

Ye Shall Know Them by Their Fruits!

"Ye shall know them by their fruits." The good and worthy will show fruits—results—leading unto life and perfect health; the poor and worthless will result in evil and disastrous consequences. This is the way that artificial infant foods should be judged. The anxious mother should know what their real fruits are before using them for her infant.

Experience and severe testing has proved that the fruits of Lactated Food are all that can be desired. The fruits of Lactated Food—the results obtained—lead to life, strength and health for the infant, and comfort, joy and a serene peace of mind for the mother. The common prepared foods are a source of danger and death during the extreme hot weather. Lactated Food will save the weak and delicate infant; nothing else in this world can so well shield it from harm at this critical time. Our best doctors heartily recommend Lactated Food; experienced mothers know there is nothing to equal it as a diet for half-dead babies. Give it an immediate trial, dear mother, if your babe is not progressing satisfactorily.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

Matters of Interest Going Forward in the Sporting World.

THE OAR.

CORNELL AND THE QUAKERS.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 8.—The trains on all roads to Lake Minnetonka were crowded from an early hour, and an immense crowd witnessed the race between the crews of Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania. It was to be rowed on Saturday evening when the wind had gone down and the course become smooth. Both crews reached racing form a week ago, and since then they have only had easy work that they might keep in form. The general sentiment seemed to favor Cornell. Their practice work has been extremely satisfactory, and there has been no difference in the stroke that has won them so many victories in the three mile events. Whether the additional mile will tell remains to be seen. Both the men, and Courtney, their coach, believed that they would lead the Quakers over the entire distance. The Pennsylvania crew is without doubt the best and strongest that the university has ever turned out, and coach Woodruff has been making his men do their best. He declares himself to be doubtful as to the winning qualities of his men, but it is believed that he is simply talking for effect. Experts say that the stroke of the Pennsylvania crew is one that seems more likely to last over four miles than that of Cornell.

Lake Minnetonka, Minn., July 8.—The Cornell and Pennsylvania university eights rowed a four-mile straight-away race to-day almost abreast. At the mile stake they were on a line. Here the Pennsylvania boys let themselves out a little. During the second mile they secured a lead of about three-quarters of a length. The steady stroke of the Cornell crew then began to tell, and slowly but surely the red and white forged ahead and at the third mile Cornell was leading by three lengths. This lead was maintained to the finish.

The finish witnessed one of the most disgraceful sights ever seen at a boat race. The police provisions were inadequate, and sail and steam crafts, which had collected during the long wait, were anchored directly in the course of the boats. Had not Cornell had a good lead she would never have won the race, for little Sherman, the cox swain of the Cornells, had to literally thread his way through a labyrinth of boats. He was successful and the winning crew crossed the finish line in 23 minutes and 52 seconds from the time of starting, which is exceptionally good time, considering the water and other conditions.

J. B. A. A. ANNUAL REGATTA.

The annual regatta of the James Bay Athletic Association will be held on Saturday afternoon, August 19th, commencing at 2 o'clock. The crews for the various club races are to be selected at once, and rowing members of the club who visit the club house this evening can learn all about it. All who intend to compete are expected to send in their names at once. The regatta held on August 20th, last year, was a great success, and the intention is to make the coming one still more so. The regular meeting of the managing committee will be held to-morrow evening.

THE RING.

THE FIGHT TO-NIGHT.

Roby, Ind., July 10.—The much-talked-of championship featherweight contest between John J. Griffin, of Massachusetts, better known as the "Braintree lad," and Solly Smith, of San Francisco, champion of the Pacific coast, which was originally announced by the management for July 3rd, will take place to-night for a certainty in the big arena of the Columbia Athletic Club, and is likely to be witnessed by the largest crowd that ever witnessed a prize fight in this region. Besides the championship a purse of $6000 will go to the winner and interest has been materially increased by the influx of Smith money. Several books have been opened on the match at two and three on Griffin, and altogether it is said that over $50,000 will change hands on the result. Neither man has spared pains in preparing himself properly for the struggle, and the backers of both say that their man is in the pink of condition. The prelude to the fight, a ten-round match between James Barry and Peter Shea, the "Portland cyclone," is expected to be cyclonic in its nature, both men being savage brutes.

THE SCALP HUNTERS.

Chicago, July 10.—To-night's fight at Roby, Ind., promises to be productive of any number of challenges to the victors. Jack Levy, the English 105 pound champion, has served notice that if Jas. Barry defeats Shea he (Levy) will meet the Chicago man in a ten-round fight prior to the Greggains-Creeden fight, for $2500 a side. Young Griffo, the Australian featherweight champion, who is here with his backer, Ed. Alexander, wants to meet the winner. Billy Murphy, the Australian, is here with a certified cheque for $3500 in his pocket and declares that he will force the winner into the ring with him. Johnny van Heest has served formal notice on both Griffin and Smith that the victor must defend the title against his claims. George Lavigne, who defeated Myers, wants a chance. Added to these is Owen Harney, the New Orleans featherweight; Jas. Dime, of Amsterdam, N. Y., and half a dozen more, all looking for the scalp of the winner of to-night's battle.

LACROSSE.

PRACTICE THIS EVENING.

The members of the senior team will practice this evening. The ground which was covered with bunting belonging to the Caledonian Society, has been cleared. Every member of the team is requested to be present.

CRICKET.

The Victoria Cricket Club defeated the cricketers of the flagship Royal Arthur on Saturday. Score 98 to 95 with a wicket to spare for Victoria.

The United banks defeated the Royal Rockyard on Saturday. Score 20 to 30.

The Albions-Juniors match was declared a draw. The Albions scored 66 and the Juniors had 5 wickets to fall with a score of 21.

THE RIFLE.

THE MATCH ON SATURDAY.

The third match in the Canadian Military League was shot at Goldstream on Saturday under rather favorable circumstances. Gunner A. R. Langley made the remarkable score of 94 out of a possible 105. There were five teams out and the score was as follows:

B.C.B.G.A. Team.

	200	400	600	T'l.
Gr. A. R. Langley	30	33	31	94
Gr. F. R. Bargison	27	28	27	82
Gr. J. L. Beckwith	26	31	22	79

YACHTING.

THE SCUD WON.

The Scud won the yacht race sailed on Saturday by about 20 seconds, the Victoria being that far behind. The Petrel made a good third.

There will be another race next Saturday. The yacht winning most races during the season will be presented with a silk flag.

WALES AS COMMODORE.

London, July 8.—The Prince of Wales acted as commodore to-day at the annual regatta of the Royal Canoe Club at Teddington Reach, and as a result the "noble" patrons of aquatic sports turned out in force. There were ten events on the programme, and at its conclusion the prince, from his canoe directed the evolutions of the fleet.

Decoration Day.

The members of the local lodges, I.O. O.F., and the Daughters of Rebekah yesterday decorated the graves of deceased brothers and sisters. The members of the lodges met at the hall, and putting on their regalia and taking a bouquet in their hand, marched to the cemetery. The ladies drove out. At the cemetery a hollow square was formed and the members were addressed by Bro. McMillan on the object and meaning of decoration day. The members then proceeded to decorate the graves of the ninety Oddfellows who are buried at Ross Bay.
